

Diefenbaker and Kennedy See Peril In Castro Regime

Agree Control Machinery Needed in Southeast Asia

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—President Kennedy and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker agreed today that the Castro dictatorship in Cuba threatens both "the peaceful and democratic evolution" of Latin America.

In a communique issued before Kennedy headed back to Washington, the U.S. and Canadian leaders also said effective control machinery will be essential to achieve peace and stability in Laos and the rest of Southeast Asia.

Defense of Freedom

Kennedy and Diefenbaker concluded the survey of their two-day conversations with this broad statement of common aims: "To banish the scourge of war, to improve the human lot, to defend and to enlarge the area of freedom, to assist peoples less privileged than our own — these are aims that bind together Canada and the United States and which, with other allies and friends, our two countries will, jointly and steadfastly, pursue."

Kennedy ended his first state visit on a note of warning for Red aggressors and of challenge for the North Atlantic allies to strengthen the security of the free world. He had held out those objectives in a speech to Parliament Wednesday.

In that same address he called for Canada to step up its contributions to the welfare of under-

Story, Photos Tell of Teen-Age Winning Cooks

The fine city of Cincinnati has no outstanding reputation as a food capital, but it might have rightfully claimed such recognition this week during the National Teenage Cook-off of the Year contest held in the Ohio metropolis.

Food Editor Lillian Mackey flew to Cincinnati to cover the event and came back with lots of new and pictures which tell of the rational winners, their menus and recipes and how the Wisconsin entry fared.

Readers will find articles and pictures of the cooking contest on page C-1 of this evening's Appleton Post-Crescent. A story on results and programs discussed within the Governor's Conference on Industrial Development held at Green Lake appears on Page 1.

5 High Soviet Union Army Officers Die in Air Tragedy

4 Generals and Colonel Killed While Carrying Out Duties, Moscow Says

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet defense ministry announced today the deaths of four Soviet generals and a colonel in an "aircraft accident" while "carrying out their duties."

The dead included Army Gen. V. U. Kolpakchi, a World War II army commander and Hero of the Soviet Union. More recently, he had been an official at the defense ministry.

The brief announcement as circulated by the official Soviet Tass news agency did not give details of the accident.

Other high-ranking officers killed were:

Colonel General S. N. Pereverkin, Lt. Gen. of Artillery V. I. Goffe, Maj. Gen. A. P. Morozov, and Col. V. M. Khukhovsky.

The announcement said the officers "perished in an aircraft accident while discharging their duties."

Condolences Sent

"The U.S.S.R. Defense ministry expressed condolences in connection with their death," it said.

Kolpakchi was the most prominent of the officers.

In World War II, he commanded an army under Marshal Georgi Zhukov, who was then a general.

Soviet sources said Kolpakchi's troops "distinguished themselves in the capture of Lodz (Poland)."

He was awarded the Order of the Patriotic War in 1944 and the Order of Lenin in 1945. Ten years later, in 1955, he was made a hero of the Soviet Union.

Kolpakchi commanded the Soviet Union's Northern military district for two years from 1954-56. From there he went to the defense ministry.

One of his last reported movements outside the Soviet Union came in January of last year when he attended the liberation anniversary celebrations at Lodz.

Tass first announced the deaths in a Russian language broadcast beamed to central Asia.

ROK Premier, Cabinet Quit

30-Man Military Committee Takes Over Government

BY GENE KRAMER

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Premier John M. Chang and his Cabinet resigned today and the military emerged triumphant in a revolt they said would put new life into South Korea's battle against corruption, poverty and communism.

The 61-year-old elected premier's bow-out gave a stamp of legality to the coup led by Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, 33, army chief of staff.

Leaders of the revolution immediately named a 30-man committee of military figures to run the country. It was headed by Gen. Chang with Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-hi, considered the mastermind of the uprising, as No. 2 man. Chiefs of all the other armed forces were included.

Jews Hanged for Trying to Smuggle Mail From Camp

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann personally ordered the execution of 16 Jews for trying to smuggle letters out of Theresienstadt concentration camp, tests that it has subsequently resumed operations under new management.

The two cars collided when Martin attempted to pass a northbound semi-trailer truck driven by Michael Noonan, 27, Milwaukee, police said. Noonan was not injured.

Martin and Spatt worked at Hardwood Products Corp., Neenah, and apparently were on their way to work. Mrs. Nelson was going south, alone in the car.

President Should be Careful In Meetings With Khrushchev, Senate Committee Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. should be only after careful planning struck a cautionary note today on the kind of personal diplomacy that apparently is leading to a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., calls the proposed meeting "premature and ill-advised" under present world conditions.

Gore, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview that he seriously questions whether Kennedy should "resort to personalized diplomacy."

Needs Time

"Combined in the wake of the Cuban and Laotian affairs and before the President has had the necessary time to consolidate his own positive foreign policy program, I think great risks are involved in a meeting of cordial heads of states," he said.

Gore told the Senate Wednesday that it should be kept in mind that Khrushchev "has no scruples." He said that if Kennedy meets with the Soviet premier it

Use Caution

"If, after the most searching study, the President does decide to meet with Premier Khrushchev, then I hope that the caution which must be used in reaching the decision is transformed into a sure-handed boldness that will make the meeting a success for the free world."

Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., said he thought it was "all wrong" for the President to engage in the kind of personal diplomacy Kennedy criticized in last year's presidential campaign.

As for a Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting, Capehart said, "nothing will come of it."

Home Teaching OK, Says Court

Professor May Keep Children Out of School

DUTCH NECK, N. J. (AP)—A Princeton University professor and his wife have won court approval to educate their three talented children at home instead of sending them to public school.

Dr. Daniel S. Trifan, 43, and his 34-year-old wife were cleared of disorderly conduct charges Wednesday by Magistrate A. C. Reeves Hicks, who ruled that the three children in question "are receiving an equivalent education in the academic sense."

The three, who have shown musical talent, have been educated at home through correspondence courses. The youngsters are Maria, 11; Daniel, 9; and Richard, 7.

The Trifans had argued that if they were forced to send their children to West Windsor Township School, the children would not have sufficient time to develop musically. The three all play the violin and piano.

Negro Hecklers Break Up NAACP Rally in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of Negro hecklers broke up a Harlem rally Wednesday night marking the seventh anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's school desegregation ruling.

The hecklers, demanding an end to what they called Negro pacifism, shouted down speaker after speaker including Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A clergyman, the Rev. Thomas Kilgore Jr., was struck in the chest by an egg as he began the benediction. He paused momentarily, then completed the prayer.

The agitators demanded that one of their number, Robert Williams, be allowed to speak. The hecklin stopped when Williams took the rostrum.

Williams described himself as a suspended member of the NAACP.

The jeers and shouts resumed after Williams left the speaker's stand. Even two hand renditions of "The Star Spangled Banner" failed to restore order.

Among other speakers who were drowned out was Mrs. Daisy Bates, NAACP chairman in Little Rock, Ark., at the time of the school desegregation crisis in that city.

After the meeting, Wilkins told newsmen that, although school desegregation in the South was going at "a slow pace," he was hopeful for the future.

Johnson Performs In Old Nixon Role

Goodwill Missions Have Become Stylish, Practical Effect Small

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson have delivered a message from President Lyndon B. Johnson to the policy toward every other country is made here in Washington — not on the scene by a visitor, even one as important as Johnson — on information from the American ambassador there, his aide, other advisers, and the Central Intelligence Agency. Johnson might have been of more practical value to Kennedy if he had remained in Washington intervening directly in South Vietnam and helped get the administration's programs through Congress, where he is an expert. He is an amateur in foreign deal. Johnson told President Ngo Dinh Diem not to worry, that the United States will jump in with army and air force if they're needed? More Aid

But any practical effect from either the Johnson or Nixon journey — with one notable exception — is hard to see. The mistreatment heaped on Nixon in South America shocked the United States into painful realization that not all Latin Americans loved us and that this country was going to have to go to the United States. Nor is it clear why anyone Nixon or Johnson may have had to say to the head of a foreign government couldn't have been public on said just as well by the local American ambassador who could States, no matter what happens, there.

will not send U.S. forces directly into Laos.

That country, already more than half lost to Communism, probably will be swallowed up by it eventually, even though Laos is the key to other Southeast Asian nations which are either neutral or tied to the United States.

But the next critical area is South Vietnam, which has received both military and economic aid from this country. Communist guerrillas are tormenting the government there.

Preliminary Foray

These guerrilla pushes appear to be only preliminaries, a feeling-out foray before larger pressure is applied. If South Vietnam goes, then all Southeast Asia is truly in danger.

The other countries there, so close to mammoth Red China, can hardly be expected to stand up against Communist pressure if the United States declines to intervene directly in South Vietnam in the event the situation there gets critical.

So — the question was: Will Johnson tell President Ngo Dinh Diem not to worry, that the United States will jump in with army and air force if they're needed? More Aid

A communique was issued after Johnson's visit. It spoke of more American economic and military help but so far it has not been reported this country promised direct intervention.

There were reports that Johnson's trip the main question son, when he got to Thailand, Johnson might promised U.S. troops might be sent there. Thailand is linked to the United States in a de- what Kennedy might say through fense treaty and is Laos' next door neighbor.

But Wednesday Johnson, while to say to the head of a foreign government couldn't have been public on said just as well by the local American ambassador who could States, no matter what happens, there.

What Now in Korea?

It will be some days or weeks before details of the army revolt in South Korea become known. As officials in Washington announced, the situation is "fluid and unclear."

So far about all that is known is that the forces of Gen. Chang Do-Young have taken over most of the country, dissolved the national assembly, declared martial law, stepped down a curfew and have announced that when things settle down all the power they have assumed will be given back to the people. Gen. Chang says the reasons for the coup were the continued high rate of unemployment, alleged corruption in the government which succeeded that of Syngman Rhee, chronic poverty and high prices. Chang says he is pro-American and anti-Communist.

There is always the possibility that he is a Communist of course, in which case South Korea has fallen with hardly a shot. But it is more likely that Gen. Chang and his followers have become increasingly alarmed about the lack of strength in American backing. True we have sent billions of dollars to Korea; this year alone the amount is $253 million. One time we fought to help them preserve freedom and independence. Our troops still are there.

But in the meantime we have given up Laos to the Reds without a struggle. The negotiations going on in Geneva are merely attempts to save face and have small chance of success even in that line. The Cuban fiasco was a tremendous blow to any anti-Communist regime that hoped for U. S. support if attacked. Vice-President Johnson, sent in a hurry to reassure the government of South Viet Nam, to promise more aid in that country, to reiterate that we stand by Formosa and won't recognize Red China, has not inspired confidence in those who look at actions not words.

We do not know Gen. Chang's real aims in South Korea. But it is apparent that American influence in that area is at an all time low.

What were all those charges during the election campaign about United States prestige abroad?

Do We Need Gold Backing for Our Currency?

Hearings are being held in Washington on a bill by Rep. Multer, D-New York, to strap the law requiring 25 per cent reserves for U. S. currency in federal reserve banks.

The Multer proposal is intended to convince financial authorities around the world that the United States would be willing to sell every ounce of its $17.4 billion in gold to maintain the international value of the dollar. Technically about $11 billion of America's gold is reserved as currency backing for the federal reserve notes and the deposits kept on hand by the 12 federal reserve district banks.

There has been some fear that, if the American gold stock ever should fall to the limit of $11 billion reserved for backing of its own currency, that some of the dollar holders abroad would fear that the United States would be compelled to stop offering gold at its standard $35 an ounce and high speculation would result. There was a slight flurry of speculation in London a few months ago at which time as much as $50 an ounce was being offered for gold. However, when President Kennedy announced that the United States would take measures to protect the dollar and continue to offer its gold for $35 an ounce the flurry died.

As a matter of fact, it is possible for the United States government to suspend for an indefinite period its 25 per cent rule on gold backing. This was the basis for President Kennedy's action last January.

There has been strong support for the Multer bill by some high officials of the treasury and from such financial experts as Henry Alexander, chairman of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company.

However, there is strong opposition too and the latest comes from Walter E. Spahr, executive vice president, Economics National Committee on Monetary Policy. Dr. Spahr is a strong believer in full gold backing for all of our currency. It is only natural then that he would oppose the elimination of the 25 per cent cover as proposed in the Multer measure. But he has what seems like pretty good reason for his objection. Dr. Spahr says that it is a simple fact of life that people are fallible. Thus it is necessary to provide objective safeguards against human fallibility. This is so because there is no better reason to assume that the managers of the banking system or of the federal treasury are more reliable than the engineers of a railway train. Nevertheless, we would not think of neglecting to put automatic braking equipment on the railway train.

It has been the common experience of nations that central banks without the protective device of reserve control have experienced over-expansion of non-gold money and credit and decline in the purchasing power of the currency and repeated devaluations.

Dr. Spahr says that such experience can come with sufficient slowness to create the illusion as to safety or it can come with such rapidity as to prevent the institution of proper correctives before disaster is experienced.

Thus he says a nation left with only irredeemable currency could quickly collapse in time of war because it lacks the necessary purchasing power. Thus it might be said that a gold reserve is perhaps the most important war chest any nation could possess. Gold always provides purchasing power. Dr. Spahr notes that Russia is well aware of this fact and employs gold to buy goods abroad since their irredeemable paper ruble is practically useless in foreign purchases. Should our gold reserves be drained away, he warned, as might happen if we eliminated this 25 per cent rule, we would have nothing that we could count upon to purchase what we need abroad.

This reserve requirement is a brake on any tendency to dissipate our reserves. Dr. Spahr says the braking mechanism is in the form of a progressive attack on any deficiency below the minimum 25 per cent requirement. All reserve, in principle, could be paid out if the reserve banks were disposed to pay the full possible tax penalty and borrowers would absorb the resulting penalty discount and interest rates which would be involved. However, Dr. Spahr says pressures of these taxes and penalties on interest and discount rates can be depended upon to bring reduction of reserves below the legal limit to a halt just as increasing the pressure of air brakes may finally stop a train. This requirement of reserve is a protection for the nation's currency and Dr. Spahr says may possibly save the nation from collapse.

A Difference of Opinion

The ladies in Milwaukee were irate

Students were picketing the meeting of the Governor's Committee on the United Nations sponsored by a variety of organizations in the state. Signs equated the United Nations with Communism, suggested that speaker Eleanor Roosevelt was a dupe of the Russians, advised that blood was being spilled while the delegates discussed "Warmed-over fascists," snuffed one lady who further announced the group should be banned. Another lady was upset because the American flag was carried in the procession. The flag represents all Americans, she said, not just a handful and she went to explain her views to a courteous but intelligent policeman.

These are interesting points of view representing one form of bigotry. The ladies had forgotten that the flag also was being displayed on the platform where the UN representatives spoke although they clearly did not represent all Americans according to the students parading outside. They had not thought, perhaps, that every Boy Scout troop has access to an American flag although all Americans are not Boy Scouts or may not even approve of them. They had not noticed that many churches display the flag when they clearly do not represent all the people.

The United States Supreme Court long ago determined that picketing was a form of speech and the First Amendment guaranteed its freedom. The court did not distinguish between pickets with whom these ladies agreed or pickets with whom they disagreed.

Either the right to picket — and to carry the American flag in procession — is upheld for all or the government must crack down upon all dissident Americans. The ladies can't have it both ways.

Can Lose, But You Can't Win

Here all along we have been worrying about how to get our hands on a $20 bill, and now we have to worry about whether it is any good if we do snare one.

The Secret Service says counterfeiters have put some $100,000 of these bogus bills in circulation and nobody seems to know how much of it may be in the hands of people who don't know it. The SS grabbed an additional quantity — $60,000 worth if they had got away with it — and arrested 30 persons involved in what was described as one of the most "sneaky-still" money rackets in years.

The SS says a close comparison between a genuine $20 note and the phony will show the difference — the portrait of Andrew Jackson is darker on the bogus bill, shading lines are heavier and ragged, serial numbers are thinner and irregular.

You are a suspect, naturally, if you have one of these worthless bills in hand, you can get pinched if you try to pass it, and the best thing to do if you catch one is to turn it in — to the SS or your bank. But nobody mentions how you get your 20 bucks back — you can lose, but you can't win.

Looks as Though More Territory Will Go Red

From The Waldoboro (Maine) Press

No one can predict just when the present Laos crisis will come to an end but a good odds bet will be that when it's over some more territory will be added under the Russian flag. If not, then President Kennedy will have a first for the start of his record, that deserves a medal.

Asks Referendum to Decide on Pool or Library at Little Chute

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This might be the mental picture which shapes itself around the word "village." A single towering steeple, about which are indiscriminately grouped, a few streets, a few stores, a few chickens, and a few local characters. This charming scene is always miles from modern day "worries." There is also an apparent lack of modern day "wonders." I don't know if such a place is for real, but I do know it really isn't here in Little Chute. It is true that we enjoy a friendly small town life here. We also have the unique opportunity of being very near to the facilities of a large city. Many of us have found employment in Appleton. Together we have earned a lot of money there — we have also spent a lot of money there. The arrangement seems beneficial to all concerned. I think our proximity to a large city should be of prime importance to us when we decide this question: "Shall it benefit Little Chute to provide a village library?"

I want it understood I do not include a "reference center" under the term "library." It would be a minor expense to provide a room in the Village Hall with several sets of reference books. These would be available to the students during the school year. Such a center would be an aid to completing homework assignments, as school libraries are not open in the evening.

Little Chute is a part of Outagamie County. A share of our taxes is used to help maintain the excellent Appleton Public Library. It is certainly evident that any library we establish will not give us the selection available at the Appleton library. It seems foolish to go to great expense, initially and annually, to provide a library which is inferior to the one we already help support.

Most of us make frequent trips to Appleton. Why not stop by for books? Withdrawals are from two to four weeks, so bring enough reading material home until the next time you have occasion to go to Appleton. We are as close to a large fine library as are many residents of Appleton! I do not feel we are denying our children an education by not having a library here. Is "learning" something we can give to youth, like so many vitamin pills? There can be no education without "inclination". We are a few easy miles away from a world of good reading. It is readily available to those who care to follow this slightly altered saying: "Come on in, the reading is fine!"

We all know the way that saying really goes: "Come on in, the water is fine!" Unfortunately that is not true here in Little Chute! Isn't it too bad that our children can't bring home a supply of swimming? To last until the next trip to Appleton it is logical that we must provide our own pool. Let's shake up our civic pride. Replace the mud puddle which spoils our beautifully located Doyle Park. The time to begin is bygone! How about a referendum soon, to settle our current controversy "library or swimming pool." We all want what is best for our village, and the minority will willingly aid the majority vote.

Thanks to the Post-Crescent for publishing these letters, both pro and con! The interest of so many people in this question shows that many of us realize we must strive to make our village a better place to live in. We are willing to provide more services even if it means more taxes!

Story Failed To Mention Gov. Nelson

Editor, Post-Crescent:

With regard to your paper's coverage of the Governor's Conference here at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, I feel that you should be concerned about a serious deletion in your article appearing Monday, May 15, 1961. No mention was made of Gov. Nelson's opening speech of one half hour entitled, "Wisconsin and the United Nations." His remarks were not only significant because he is the most distinguished citizen of our state, but certainly also because under his efforts Wisconsin is the first and only state which holds the yearly conference honoring the endeavors of the United Nations. In my personal opinion his comments were among the finest and most understandable delivered at the conference. In recognition of his prominent position the governor was also

By looking at the new orders from the War Department, it will be seen that the "close thorough" system of giving commissions to none but West Point graduates or now and then to a political favorite, is completely broken up. The French way — introduced by Napoleon — is adopted.

In all regiments of infantry, rifles or cavalry, one-third of the commissions are to be given to sergeants who show themselves fit thereof.

This opens the military profession as a career to any intelligent, ambitious young man who may choose it. This reform has been attempted before, but was always put down by our aristocratic Southern masters with the saying that "commissions should be held by none except gentlemen." And what they mean by gentleman is slaveholder.

Few State Services People Back Sales Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — An incongruity of the political times in Wisconsin is the fact that some of the groups that are most zealous in their advocacy of bigger government, social service programs of all kinds are among the stoutest of the opponents of a tax revision that would facilitate such expansion.

Wyngaard

Nobody really doubts that the best chance for more generous budgeting for the university and the state colleges, the welfare department and many other popular services would be through the more easily collected dollars that would be yielded through a sales tax.

Yet the champions of those services usually are in the vanguard of those insisting upon continued reliance upon income tax rate increases, and denouncing the very idea of the sales tax that has been adopted by a considerable majority of the other states of the country including many of the income tax states.

INFLUENCE

The most potent factor in the establishment of the climate of opinion on tax policy that has remained for decades has been the economics faculty of the University of Wisconsin, which has influenced the education of thousands of leading citizens over the years.

Yet almost to a man the members of the faculty feel underprivileged, with respect to their salary arrangements, at the biennial chorus of appeals from the campus so effectively demonstrates. Even Gov. Nelson, who is perhaps more sympathetic to the faculty position than any governor in modern times, has publicly confessed that his budget is lower than he feels the university — and the state service generally — ought to have. The obvious inference is that he dared not propose more spending, because he knew the resistance to the painful income tax increases that would result.

The other day a young woman representing the League of Women Voters, which in Madison is heavily influenced by faculty wives, stood up before the legislature and read eloquently a statement defending higher income taxes, and vowing continued opposition to the iniquitous person responsible for introducing Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Please feel that this letter is inspired by my overall concern for the coverage of political events by the press as a whole, and is not meant to be a criticism of your efforts at the Post-Crescent.

Lyn S. Imig

tous sales tax. That young woman is the wife of a state civil servant, who like most of his colleagues, feels that state salaries ought to be fattened substantially. But like the professors, he has heard the liberal governor say he cannot propose the kind of increases he would really like to have — within the present revenue arrangements.

SOME EXCEPTIONS

There are exceptions to this almost religious devotion to a tax viewpoint, among the civil servants and teachers, but they are not put on the record. Only occasionally does a member of the academic community turn up to utter a dissent, as did Prof. Emanuel Gottlieb of the economics faculty of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee the other day.

Prof. Gottlieb was talking not especially about ideological considerations, but of the mechanics of tax collections and the relative efficiency of tax methods. He made a point that has not been heard before in legislative halls — in spite of the loquacity of other tax experts who frequent those chambers. He said that for a significant number of taxpayers, and a sizeable proportion of community income, the sales tax is far more efficient as a method of collecting public money than the personal income tax. That segment is the self-employed. Studies have shown that they tend to understate their incomes, and overstate their deductions, he told the legislators.

These are the taxpayers who would not be affected by the withholding method of income tax collection, hailed by its champions as the sure means of catching up the tax evaders.

Prof. Gottlieb also had the tenacity to follow through to the conclusions toward which his studies led him, as when he said the income tax is least efficient, with regard to the self-employed, in yielding taxes from farmers. The farmer also is carefully exempt from the withholding bill before the legislature.

College Tests Need More Than Machine Grades

From The Buffalo Evening News

Thought for the college-bound teen-agers who await with awe and trepidation the magic number the electronic computers will assign them on their College Board exams:

"There are some of us," says President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale, "who still prefer the essay examination to the intellectual bingo game, scored by electricity."

The trouble with an essay is that it takes a human brain, and a little creative flare and imagination, to grade it properly. And there's no telling who might get into college if you start scoring these youngsters creatively instead of objectively.

Fee Approved For College Applicants

Move Made to Reduce Heavy
Enrollment Numbers

MADISON (AP) — A recommendation that a fee be required with future applications for admission to Wisconsin state colleges was approved by the Council of State College Presidents Wednesday.

Some way of reducing the heavy number of applications must be found said the council, gathered in conjunction with a meeting of the Board of State College Regents. The regents considered the proposal but took no action.

The regents took up the request by teachers in Racine and Kenosha counties for a summer extension program at the county teachers college in Union Grove. Robert Williams, president of Whitewater State College, was appointed to look into the plan, which would be self-supporting and which would not grant resident credits.

The regents indicated they were concerned over the possibility of similar requests from other counties throughout the state.

A nine member committee was appointed by the regents to seek a successor to Verne C. Frylund, who is retiring as president of Stout State College. William Bundy, a regent from Menomonie, was named chairman.

It was announced by the regents that grants from the American Historical Association will permit the colleges at Eau Claire, Oshkosh and Stevens Point to sponsor special institutes for Wisconsin high school history teachers this summer. The grants will include living expenses and tuition for participants.

On a related subject, it was announced that the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education will meet at the Wisconsin Center here Friday and Saturday to consider an agenda that includes University of Wisconsin and State College tuition, college qualifications tests and physical facilities at the UW extension centers.

ROK Premier, Cabinet Quit

was listed as the third-ranking official of the new regime, followed by Lt. Gen. Park Lung-hang, who earlier was reported to have replaced Lt. Gen. Lee Han-lum as commander of the powerful 1st Field Army.

The replacement of Lee was not officially confirmed, but well-placed military sources said he had been ousted because he did not back the coup from the start. Lee, commanding on the critical armistice border with North Korea, at first took a neutral stand toward the coup and only came out in support of it early today.

Deposed Premier Chong accepted full "moral and political responsibility" for the two-day crisis in which American officials in Korea unsuccessfully backed his government.

Change Pleads for Unity
Coming out of hiding to capitulate, he made a plea for the closing of ranks and international support of the new regime.

"There must be no more bloodshed," he told newsmen after resigning. "We must strengthen our anti-Communist stand and we must seek international support."

As his last act he issued a retroactive proclamation of martial law, proclaiming a similar order issued by Gen. Chang Tuesday shortly after his forces took over Seoul. The intent appeared to be to strengthen the technical legality of the military takeover.

After calling on President Yun Po-sun, Chang went home, describing himself as "once more just a plain citizen." But it was not clear whether he was free to move around.

Ministers Released
Ten Cabinet ministers who resigned "en masse" with him were also freed to go home. Five ministers were still in hiding and failed to respond to a call from the revolutionary leaders to the showdown meeting with the junta that preceded the cabinet resignation.

For the moment there was no comment from the U.S. Embassy or the State Department in Washington.

Washington had adopted an official hands-off policy toward the coup after American officials here came out in open support of the elected parliamentary government.

Ambassadors Will be Shifted in 4 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has won his fight against the shifting of ambassadors nearly every two years. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles informed him that from now on the goal will be to keep ambassadors at one post for four years.

Watch 'Spiritual Hideouts' Lutheran Pastor Declares

LA CROSSE (AP) — A warning against the building of "spiritual hideouts" was given delegates Wednesday at the wrapup of a three-day convention of the Southern Wisconsin District of the American Lutheran Church.

"Give yourself to God totally or have no traffic with Him at all," the Rev. Herbert A. Hanson of Janesville told delegates representing some 112,000 members of 4,949 churches in the district's seven conferences.

Executive officers chosen were the Rev. A.C. Schumacher of Madison, vice president, the Rev. F.J. Landbeck of Boscobel, pastor-at-large, M.A. Kreseth of Mauston, layman-at-large, and Fred H. Westphal of Janesville, treasurer.

District pastoral conference officers elected were the Rev. O.W. Nelson of Milwaukee, president, the Rev. M.A. Mintz of Racine, vice president, and the Rev. Norman Nelson of La Crosse, secretary.

The district includes conferences in La Crosse, Fond du Lac, Dodgeville, Watertown, Milwaukee, Janesville and Madison.

Student Won't Get Make-Up Exams if Pep Pills Backfire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Vanderbilt's students have been warned that if they take pills to pep them up during examinations and the pills backfire, it's the end of their college careers.

John L. Bingham, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said Wednesday any student who dares himself through the use of amphetamine pills shall not be allowed to take a make-up examination.

Bingham said he intended to warn to the "little humors" but I wanted, too, to let them know they can't take examinations lightly. He said it didn't apply to many students.

The flag, which belongs to the Cocoa Beach Elementary School, rode aloft in Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s space capsule May 5. It was placed in the spacecraft by Project Mercury officials.

Robert B. Fritz, school principal, said the Citizens Freedom Week Committee of Philadelphia had requested the use of the flag for July 4. He added the flag will be returned here after the ceremonies.

developed Latin-American nations and join the Organization of American States.

The communists made no direct reference to this appeal. It said Kennedy and Diefenbaker discussed the need for accelerating economic progress and social reform as well as strengthening the Western Hemisphere trend away from dictatorship and toward democracy. These objectives are closely related, it added.

"They were in accord that the alignment of a regime in the Western Hemisphere with Communist leadership abroad was a matter for serious concern, threatening as it did the peaceful and democratic evolution of the Latin American peoples," it said.

Latin On Cuba
Diefenbaker assured Kennedy of Canada's "continued and increasing interest in inter-American affairs."

The statement referring to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro was something Kennedy had sought in his trip to Ottawa—his first outside the United States since his inauguration. Canada previously had exhibited less concern than the United States over the potential menace of Castro's link with the Soviet Union, to the entire Western Hemisphere.

As to the call to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's conventional and nuclear power, the two leaders said: "It is more than ever necessary that the strength and unity of NATO be reinforced."

No Details on Increases
They omitted any mention of specific increases by Canada or other NATO governments to the alliance's defense forces, but did assert that a strong defense must be maintained until "effective disarmament measures can be secured under proper safeguards."

Kennedy and Diefenbaker reaffirmed their desire for negotiating at Geneva "a truly independent and neutral Laos." Both Canada and the United States are participating in the Laos conference at Geneva, and Canada is a member of the three nation commission assigned to supervise a cease-fire between Communists and pro-Western royalists in Laos itself.

Diefenbaker and Kennedy agreed that effective control machinery represents "a key element in a settlement of the Laos situation and an essential ingredient in achieving peace and stability in southeast Asia."

On other points the two leaders restated their confidence in the United Nations, declared the negotiation of a nuclear test ban treaty with effective measures for inspection was a basic step toward disarmament, agreed that such projects as the organization for economic cooperation and development and the development assistance group would enable the two countries to coordinate their policies of aid to underdeveloped nations, and emphasized their interest in promoting employment and expanding world trade.

Presently the law allows only a legal separation in such cases. A divorce can be obtained after five years of separation.

Sen. Robert Moser, D-Milwaukee, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that under the present procedure persons involved in divorces "are losing respect for the courts and the law."

In order to obtain a divorce either the husband or the wife agrees to take all the blame. Otherwise the judge can grant only a legal separation, he said.

The Family Code, an extensive legal revision aimed at reducing the number of divorces in the state, went into effect 15 months ago.

Moser offered three amendments to the code on behalf of the Family Code Revision Committee. Controversy centered on the proposal to change the court proceedings.

Donald Rush representing the Provincial Council of Catholic Bishops, asked the committee to "give the code a chance to operate" before amending it. It is too early to evaluate the results of the present code, he said.

But Ralph Podell, a Milwaukee attorney, urged revision and called the situation "a hindrance upon the community." Because of the fact that one partner in the marriage remains silent in order to get the divorce the court cannot properly go into the question of who should have custody of the children, he said.

The proposal was opposed by Robert W. Hanson, family court judge from Milwaukee, who said there is "no fraud or mockery" in these courts.

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to change Wisconsin's Family Code to permit a judge to grant a divorce even though both husband and wife are guilty of some misconduct was opposed at a legislative hearing Wednesday.

Sen. Robert Moser, D-Milwaukee, told the Senate Judiciary Committee that under the present procedure persons involved in divorces "are losing respect for the courts and the law."

Ike Wouldn't 'Get Into Gutter' With McCarthy, Sherman Adams Says

Eisenhower Quoted as Saying Kremlin Should Pay Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has been quoted as saying of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., "I will not get into the gutter with that guy."

This was related by Sherman Adams, at one time Eisenhower's chief aide, in an excerpt from his memoirs to be published May 19 by a national magazine (Life) and in book form in a month.

Adams said Eisenhower "would have preferred to look steadily at a point at least two feet" over the head of McCarthy.

Get in Gutter?

"When C. D. Jackson (another Wisconsin aide) urged the president to put McCarthy in his place by attacking the senator for his violent extremism, I was not surprised when I heard later what McCarthy said: 'I will not get into the gutter with that guy,'" Adams wrote.

Adams gave this general account of Eisenhower's attitude toward McCarthy through the years.

Though the president greatly disapproved of McCarthy and Sen. McCarthy was quoted as replying that if Eisenhower did he would have had his own on the payroll," Adams said.

would be bood. At Green Bay, one of the highlights in a musical program at 3:30 p.m. Friday in form beside Eisenhower and Memorial Chapel. This is the 31st waved triumphantly to the crowd. in the current Lawrence College Conservatory student recital series.

Eisenhower told his listeners that while he supported the Wisconsin senator's efforts to rid the government of Communists, it was well known that there were differences between McCarthy and himself.

No Boos

There were no boos, and afterwards McCarthy walked out of the candidate's car "looking black in the face."

In an address for a Milwaukee gathering, Eisenhower sought to insert a bit of praise for Gen. George C. Marshall, a subject of the senator's attacks. However, advisers to keep him out of McCarthy's line of fire.

Stay Out of State

During Eisenhower's first campaign, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York pleaded with Eisenhower to keep him out of McCarthy's line of fire.

When Eisenhower's Wisconsin-bound campaign train made a stop in Peoria, Ill., Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin boarded it to ride into his state and with him was McCarthy.

Eisenhower was quoted as telling McCarthy he was going to say that he disagreed with the senator.

Ignore Senator

Adams continued that if Eisenhower could have had his own on the payroll," Adams said.

Opposing Housing Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — An ornate hearing chamber in the old Wisconsin statehouse echoed loudly this week to earnest argument on both sides of an issue that will be one of the most difficult of the year to resolve for the 1961 legislature — an extension of civil rights legislation to cover the admitted gap of rental and purchase housing.

Organized realtors descended upon the legislature to tell the senate committee on governmental affairs that the proposal drawn by the Governor's Commission on Human Rights and specifically endorsed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson would discriminate against them for the doubtful benefit of Negro and other minorities.

The law would make it specifically illegal to refuse to sell or rent property to any person for reasons of race, nationality, religion or color.

Sweeping Bill
The sweeping bill contains many other controversial provisions, including a proposal to grant to the commission enforcement powers, but the property transfer anti-discrimination provisions drew the most and most sustained fire during a long afternoon of discussion.

"This is the most important social legislation of the year in Wisconsin," said Sen. Horace Wilkie of Madison, one of six Democratic and Republican authors who offered the bill for the commission on a bi-partisan basis.

"This is awesome and frightening authority to give to a department that will be prosecutor, judge and jury," responded David Scoon, executive of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Boards.

Backed by Commission
The measure was ardently backed by half a dozen members of the commission, numerous spokesmen for Negro groups in Milwaukee and Madison, the League of Women Voters, the United Auto Workers Association, the AFL-CIO, the Wisconsin Council of Churches, the Milwaukee Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Church Women, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

It was denounced by the state and local realtors' groups, many individual realtors, the Wisconsin State Hotel Association, the Wisconsin Motel Association and the Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

Backers feelingly decried what they said was discrimination in housing and in some public accommodations in Wisconsin in refutation to its pretensions to being a progressive state, and the irony of such discrimination in a democratic country which is trying to impress the colored nations and peoples of the world with the ideals of democracy.

Opponents with equal vigor complained that they are being discriminated against at economic cost to themselves, that the legislature cannot compel tolerance or the elimination of prejudices from the minds of individuals, and that more state effort and money to educate people to the need for human understanding and human rights is the more effective way to eliminate what they conceded are discriminatory practices in some fields — including housing.

Against It
"I'm against policing everyone's private opinion at the expense of my own living," said one realtor, who repeated the frequent assertion that when the realtor makes an agreement with a property owner, he sells the property on the terms and conditions imposed by his client.

Dr. G. Aubrey Young of Waukesha, chairman of the commission and a Presbyterian minister, told the senators that the commission had been rebuffed in its efforts to consult with the realtors about its bill, but Robert Smart, president of the Post-Crescent and vice-president of the governor's commission, said that the state brokers' association, described that as a "distortion of facts."

Minahan Writes
Minahan wrote that he agrees with those who feel that education, persuasion and conciliation are important in the field of human relations, but added: "However, in this and in other fields, there must be a solid basis of law on which to build a structure of conciliation and persuasion. Without such a foundation of law, attempts to persuade Negroes and Jews are frequently denied 'their God-given right to enjoy the lakes and the scenery of our northland because they are not always accepted at our resorts and hotels.'"

Describing housing as the greatest unmet need of Northern Negroes who are settling in Wisconsin in increasing numbers, Dr. Young likened it to the problem of their segregation on the basis of race in the Southern states. David Rabinovitz of Sheboygan, a member of the commission and Democratic national committee-man for Wisconsin, told the legislators that Negroes and Jews are Nelson sent an aide to the committee room to praise the commission, established by one of his Republican predecessors, but to sure of some of the state's largest add that it needs better tools to social and church groups. The measure was introduced in January and was scheduled for a hearing four months later, reportedly was Peter Pappas of LaCrosse, after considerable pressure upon one of former Gov. Vernon W. Thomson's staff and a GOP organization leader in western Wisconsin, the commission some enforcement power was defeated two years ago.

Bethany Program

Open House Set for Home for the Aged

WAUPACA — There will be an active, although there also are open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Bethany Home for the Aged, 21 double rooms for guests, in addition to many other rooms for the needed facilities for maintaining the home and rooms for hobbies and entertainment.

Feature of the open house will be tours through the nearly completed $725,000 building which will house 85 guests. Completion date has been moved back to Oct. 1, after which the public will be invited to attend dedication ceremonies.

The new home is of a modern design to make life complete for the aged guests. While it is sponsored by The American Lutheran Church, guests can be from and are from other denominations. Of the 34 guests currently at the home, 10 are from other denominations.

The services in the home's big chapel, however, will be American Lutheran.

Emphasize Activity
Visitors Saturday and Sunday will find that the home emphasizes programs for guests to stay

Radio System
A central radio system will provide three radio stations, high-fidelity music and broadcasts directly from the chapel to the infirm residents.

Employees will have a separate dining room, lounge and locker room, near the laundry room. The administration also is providing a large hobby shop for the men, near the boiler room. This will contain power equipment for both wood and metal work.

Guests at the home are encouraged to take part in hobbies and make use of the big 27-acre area for leisure walks and sunshine.

The front of the new building is only a short distance from the Crystal River and the back almost borders on Shadow Lake.

Feature Car-Port
The main entrance also will feature a car-port and a large lounge for visitors and guests.

A drive for funds was conducted three years ago and about $80,000 was raised for the furnishings. Some of this money, however, was spent on the building and the home plans to encourage memorials.

The new home contains a modern kitchen from which family style meals will be served to the resident guests. All of the kitchen equipment will be stainless steel.

People who visit the home Saturday and Sunday afternoons will see displays of items made by the guests. Most of the guests make items, sell them and donate the proceeds to the home.

Poppy Day Friday

Members of the American Legion and its auxiliary will be on the street corners throughout Appleton Friday selling poppies to raise money for veterans. Mayor Clarence Mitchell has acknowledged the project with a proclamation.

Mrs. Barbara Nelson, Kaukauna, mother of 11 children, was killed at 6:53 a.m. today when her car (above) collided with an auto driven by Norbert J. Martin, 51, Oshkosh, who was attempting to pass a truck on U. S. 41 near Valley Air-Ways. Martin also was killed and Charles Sphatt, 62, also of Oshkosh, was critically injured.

One Handicap Doesn't Mean Total Disability, Seminar Speaker Says

Tells Recreation Directors Not to Idolize the Normal

A handicap doesn't mean a person is totally disabled. University of Wisconsin graduate student Thomas Stein said yesterday at a seminar on recreation for handicapped children at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

Speaking about "Understanding the Handicapped," Stein also warned against idolizing normal behavior and deprecating and setting aside those who are not normal. Masses of steps in public buildings are an example of how the physical world is built for the normal, he explained. Ramps are put in some buildings for those who cannot walk the steps, but yet the steps are left in as a symbol to show that those who use the ramp are not normal, Stein said.

The speaker said people shouldn't be pushed into "normal" activities such as baseball, dancing and skating which aren't universally held values.

Lack of Headaches
Respect for beauty, good digestive system and lack of headaches are also examples of emphasis on normality, Stein said.

"Don't allow stereotypes to take over," he warned as he described the "halo effect" of attributing several disabilities to a person with one handicap. He told of a blind man who went to a library with another man and asked for a book. Rather than answer the blind man, the librarian spoke only to his companion as if the blind man were also deaf.

Handicapped people want to be understood, but don't want to be the center of attention or morbid curiosity, said Stein, who is completing a two-year research project on the effect of camping on the orthopedically handicapped. When working with handicapped people as with racial minorities, personality becomes major and differences minor, he continued.

He asked the recreational leaders at the seminar to be sympathetic, but not to the point of pity. When dealing with the handicapped he said:

Offers to Talk
Don't talk about the disability until the person offers to talk. If you must talk about it, do so in a matter-of-fact manner. Don't dwell on the subject unless the handicapped person wants to.

Don't try to evade talking about the disability.
Be sincere and don't evaluate the handicapped person's statements.

Don't offer false hope of cure. Don't be too quick to help, because the person may want to help himself. When you do help.

Police Nab Stolen Car Driver on Foot

6 Squads Pursue Auto; Youth Caught at Farm After Crash

Another stolen car was spotted and chased by Appleton and Outagamie County police early this morning. As in a similar chase Tuesday night, the driver crashed the car and ran off. This time the driver was caught.

The young driver was found hiding under farm machinery at a farm near the intersection of State 47 and County Trunk S about ten minutes after the chase began. He admitted stealing the car of Larry Ulman, 1037 W. Lorain St. Ulman said the car was taken from his home between 10 p.m. Wednesday and 1:30 a.m. today. The youth said he took the car from a parking place at 347 W. College Ave.

Found Keys
Among his belongings Appleton police found a set of keys identified as those taken in a break-in at Appleton Senior High School reported at 4 a.m. today.

Six squad cars were speeding after the stolen car before the chase ended. Appleton Policemen David Young and Leo Bosch first spotted the car. They started the pursuit at 3:36 a.m. Four other Appleton squads and one county squad joined in. At 3:40 a.m. the car was found in the ditch and the driver was seen heading north across a field.

The car was driven into a ditch through an electric fence and into a field. Squad cars had chased it at speeds up to 95 m.p.h.

The office of Appleton Senior High School was entered sometime Wednesday night or this morning. A partly burned check and some used matches were found on the floor of the office. The office door was broken. A tool chest in the woodworking room also was entered. A high school official identified the keys this morning.

The youth told Appleton police he had taken the car to Menasha. He said he planned to go gopher hunting at Highland Memorial Park. There was a shotgun in the car, but he said it wasn't his.

Cains Freed On Bond in Tax Case

CHICAGO—Atty. Allan C. Cain and his wife, Margaret, were ordered released on $1,000 bond each by U. S. Court of Appeals Judge Win G. Knoch today pending appeal of their conviction of fraudulently evading federal income taxes.

No appeal date has been set. Dist. Judge Luther M. Swygert denied a request to free the attorney and his wife on bond at the time of their conviction May 4, stating that facts in the case were so conclusive as to render an appeal little more than a delaying tactic.

Cain and his wife each were fined $2,000 and sentenced to a year in prison after a sensational trial in Milwaukee earlier this month. The Cains were charged with understating their taxable income by $60,674 on their Catholic Basketball Tournament 1953 to 1956 returns, thereby evading $19,946 in taxes.

Jet Service Unlikely for Fox Valley

Too Many Stops Not Economical For Big Planes

NEENAH — Pure jet airplane service for the Fox River Valley area appears very unlikely. James Palm, district manager of North Central Airlines, told the Neenah Kiwanis Club Wednesday noon at the Valley Inn.

Palm said that the performance of pure jets, or even turbo-prop planes, leaves much to be desired on low altitude flights.

He said that at the present time it takes two hours and 20 minutes for a flight between Minneapolis and Chicago. One hour and 17 minutes of that time, he said, is spent on the ground on the many stops.

Palm reported that North Central plans to keep replacing its DC3's with Convairs until they have a fleet of 40 of the larger airplanes. "Within five years we intend to be using the Convair 440, a plane with a speed of 300 to 350 miles an hour."

Robert Ashton, American Airlines traced the history of American Airlines jet service and said the airline plans to add Convair 440 jets to its fleet this fall. "Anything beyond the 440, which flies at 625 miles an hour, will have to be a craft which exceeds the speed of sound," he commented.

St. Mary Yearbook Dedicated To Basketball Coach McClone

MENASHA — St. Mary High School's "Renard" yearbook, dedicated to Coach Ralph McClone, was distributed today to students.

The school's tribute recognizes alumnus as husband, father, business man and coach, and states: "Dynamic!"

That is the only word which approximates the personality of Ralph McClone. An intense man, motion personified, he does nothing half-way. Though for several years he was successful as a three-sport coach, McClone is a hard driver. He works hard and expects his men to do the same. It pays off!

Won Tournament
McClone's basketball team last year won first place in the State Catholic Basketball Tournament and second place in this year's return match. He led his Loopers

Neenah Omits Chestnut on Objections

NEENAH — The common council Wednesday night approved $314,185 in street and sewer construction work but eliminated proposed curb and gutter work on Chestnut Street after residents protested at a public hearing. Also approved was an extensive sidewalk program of almost $10,000.

The protests were based on flooding last year. Phil Gaertner, 510 Chestnut St., said residents had problems with sewers, and he would like to see the sewers corrected before the street is paved and curb and gutters installed. Spencer Payne, 331 Chestnut St., said he had built a new home and after the first rain he had 3½ feet of water in his basement.

Oppose Delay
Mayor Chester S. Bell said there were no plans at this time to enlarge storm sewers on Chestnut. Ald James Dimus said he felt the people would like a careful check for cross-connections when the street is torn up.

He moved for deletion of Chestnut Street work pending completion of the sewer program in the area. Aldermen Aaron Dix and Warren Sanders opposed the delay.

Paving and curb and gutter work on Laurel Court was approved over the objection of Neil Hetzel, 1054 Laurel Court. Hetzel said there were few homes on the street for additional home construction would damage the road. He also said the street foundation is not fully set.

Maintain Street
Ald. Dimus said the developer in the area has agreed to cooperate in maintaining the street. Having curb and gutter in now would actually help persons wanting to build on the street by making loans more readily available, he added.

Contracts were let for work on West Cecil, Sund, Evans, E. North Water, Pine and Geiger Streets. Laurel and Holly Courts and Gillingham Road.

Low bidders were: Fred Holtz, curb and gutter, $77,331; Courtney and Plummer, bituminous concrete, $98,600; Courtney and

Lawrence Sorority Planning Car Wash

Delta Gamma sorority at Lawrence College will wash cars in the parking lot of Brokaw Hall from 12:30 to 6 p.m. Friday.

Proceeds will go to the sorority's national sight conservation project. Two local stores, Belling Pharmacy and Conkey's Book Store are ticket agencies.

The Competition for Prom King is on at Lawrence College today and Phi Kappa Tau fraternity got things started with a bang Wednesday when "Elliot Press," better known as Donald Patterson, Appleton, and his men arrested A. F. Coxford, Lawrence math teacher, as he ate dinner at Brokaw Hall. The agents are rushing him out of the dining hall at left. Coxford, who fraternity members called "the most cooperative prisoner we ever dealt with" was photographed, cen-

ford was scheduled to be "shot" this morning and the script calls for him to fall forward onto a balloon full of catsup. Patterson will oppose Richard Heinemann, Sturgeon Bay, representative of Sigma Phi Epsilon, in Friday balloting. The prom is Saturday night.

15 Elm Tree Drivers Join Teamsters

Union Charges Firm With Unfair Labor Practices

Charges of unfair labor practices have been brought against Elm Tree Bakeries, 5300 W. College Ave., by the local 503 of the General Drivers and Dairy Employees Union.

Fifteen long-haul drivers, who were discharged Tuesday for insubordination, have joined the local union of the Teamsters Union, and have designated "as their exclusive bargaining agent" Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer.

Schlieve said the charges were filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

The Elm Tree plant is being picketed by the 15 men.

B. A. Pfeiffer, president of the firm, told the Post-Crescent Wednesday that the men were discharged because they refused to attend a routine sales meeting Monday and again Tuesday.

"They were no longer taking company orders," he said.

Robert Smith, David 'Tiny' Haef, and John Vanden Heuvel. The men claimed their main reasons for being dissatisfied are "discriminatory actions" by the company, and changes in wage rates which make it difficult to maintain a certain level of income.

Appleton police detectives this morning questioned the man suspected of shooting Mrs. Victoria Hughes.

The suspect woke up from an 11-day coma Tuesday and was able to speak for the first time today.

Mrs. Hughes was shot in the basement of her Appleton home May 5 by a 38 caliber bullet. Police found the suspect unconscious, apparently from an overdose of barbiturates, 3 1/2 hours after the shooting. In his car was a 38 caliber pistol.

One Handicap Not 'Disability,' Speaker Says

don't make the handicapped person surrender his dignity.

Programs Modified

Recreational programs often can be modified to include the handicapped, Stein said. If a child can't run, he still may play catcher and have someone run for him when he bats the ball. He said recreation leaders should go into programs for the handicapped with the attitude that "you like these kids."

Leading discussion of administrative problems in recreation for the handicapped were Gerald Smith, Waukesha County Recreation director; William Houtz, Oconomowoc city recreation director; Ronald Friberg, Wisconsin state recreation director; and Ernest Goranson, especially for people with slight recreation consultant for the State Department of Public Welfare's division for children and youth, and Omar Miron, director of services for the blind in the state welfare department's Green Bay office.

They pointed out that recreation for the handicapped is more costly than for other children, because it requires one leader for every five to eight children. An ordinary playground has about one paid leader and two to four volunteers for 50 children. Houtz suggested that the recreation leaders get the Easter Seal Society or service clubs to start recreation programs for the handicapped, and gradually the community could take over.

Miron pointed out that there are degrees of impairment, and suggested that leaders look out for the handicapped, especially for people with slight impairment.

Some activities, such as swimming and music appreciation, are open to nearly all people, while others, such as softball, are more limited, Friberg said.

Houtz said his department personally invited handicapped children to the playgrounds. Did other children ridicule the cause? No, Houtz answered, but some were overprotective. Then in a game of tag one child used his crutch to trip another youngster, and that ended the overprotection.

Charge Brings Fine, License Loss

OSHKOSH — Jerome J. Lee, 21, route 2, Neenah, was fined $55 and his fishing and hunting licenses were automatically revoked for a year after he pleaded no contest to having live game birds in his possession without having a game or fur farm license.

Lee had been fined $105 in 1959 for shunning deer.

A second charge of possessing a 22 caliber rifle on Little Lake Butte des Morts during a closed season was dismissed at the request of Dst. Atty. Jack Steinhilber. Lee was arrested by conservation wardens March 25 and had pleaded innocent. Trial was to have been this morning.

Man Still Has a Long Way To Go in Space Travels

Shepard Made 115 Mile Flight, But Moon Is 240,000 Miles Away

BY JOSEPH L. MYLER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Man gets closer to earth than about 203.19 miles, according to the Russians, in his orbital space.

Yuri Gagarin hit a peak altitude of 203.19 miles, according to the Russians, in his orbital space.

Third of Series

Flight around the world April 12. Alan B. Shepard Jr. got 115 miles away from the earth in his trip May 5.

But the moon is still some 240,000 miles distant. Venus never all of the really basic scientific and engineering problems of space flight have been solved.

Higher and longer flights can be undertaken just as soon as more powerful rockets and bigger and better spacecrafts can be built. How soon will this come about? Which nation will be the first to land men on the moon and bring them back?

Can Only Guess

The answer to "how soon?" can only be guessed — in six to 10 years, perhaps. As to whether the first man on the moon will be an American or a Russian, the only honest answer now is that the odds strongly favor the Russian.

The Russians, by their own account, have been preparing for manned space flight for at least 10 years. This country's Mercury man-in-space program got under way about 2½ years ago.

At the moment, Russian space rockets are more than twice as powerful as America's best.

The year 1967 has often been mentioned speculatively by American space experts as the Soviet target date for a manned moon landing. But only the Russians know the Russian schedule.

Change Moon Goal

The U.S. moon goal, like the moon itself, changes from time to time. Last year it was "some time after 1970." Early this year the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) mentioned a specific year, 1971.

A few weeks ago Dr. Robert C. Seamans, associate director of NASA advanced the target year to 1969 or 1970. Could the United States send a man to the moon and back as early as 1967?

Yes, Seamans told Congress — if it wants to spend an extra $20-to-$40 billion in an "emergency kind of all-out effort."

There is little to indicate the Administration, the Congress, or the people want to do that.

62 Die on State's Roads During April; Three More Than 1960

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin counted 62 persons killed on state highways in the month of April.

The figure was announced by the State Motor Vehicle Department which said the total was three more than in the same month a year ago, and four more than in March of this year.

The death list for the first four months of the year contained the names of 247 victims, compared with 214 in the same period of 1960.

Forty-eight of the victims in the first four months of this year were pedestrians. That figure was 10 higher than in the same span last year.

Shepard Pay Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)—A resolution to authorize a $10,000 payment to astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr., for his historic space flight earlier this month has been introduced by Rep. Victor L. Amfuso, D-N. Y.

Democracy May Not Work Everywhere

U. S. Better Start Selling Better Way Of Life to Fight Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—It doesn't follow that because democracy works here it will elsewhere. In many places it hasn't. So the United States has to sell something besides democracy in a lot of places to keep them out of communism.

It has to sell a chance for a good life.

The Associated Press from Tokyo reports that the army revolt which Tuesday overthrew the South Korean government had strong allies in grinding poverty and social ills.

Same Pattern
It was in the pattern of army revolts which abolished or changed parliamentary governments in the Congo, Laos, Egypt, Sudan, Turkey, Pakistan, Burma, Iraq and Thailand.

Everywhere around the world an American-aided government is in danger of overthrow, by its army or communism, unless it gives the people assurance it is working for their welfare.

What is the image of the enormously rich and powerful American going to mean to a poverty-stricken peasant somewhere if a Russian tells him:

"It took the United States 200 years to get where it is. And in 200 years maybe your country can be just as rich. But it only took Russia 40 years to become the giant it is."

Will you wait?
"You're 35. Your life expectancy under present conditions is only 40. You have only five years left."

"Are you willing to wait 200 years in the hope your country will become another America or do you want a better life than this in a hurry for yourself and your family under communism?"

If an American then tells the peasant about the blessings of democracy, it won't mean much if the peasant never really knew democracy.

Thus this country's problem, with its foreign aid, is to get the peasant's government to put into effect reforms and programs which will give this poverty-stricken man reason to think he can have a better life without communism.

Began Early
The Communists began early with their promises. Right after the war in Southern Italy, before the first post-war elections, Communists went from door to door promising them land of their own.

That one the Communists lost. President Kennedy himself, in his speech last summer accepting the Democratic nomination, spoke of the "one-third of the world" that is "rocked by pangs of poverty, hunger and envy."

In a general way he expressed his awareness of the remedy called for when, in his State of the Union message in January, he acknowledged the huge task:

U. S. Role
Our role is essential and unavoidable in the construction of a sound expanding economy for the entire non-Communist world, helping other nations to build the strength to meet their own aspirations, to surmount their own dangers.

"The problems, in achieving this goal are towering and unprecendented."

So far he has not attempted to talk to the American public on this problem at length—and with whatever solutions he may have in mind — except through news conferences and messages to Congress.

His message on foreign aid won't go to Congress for about another 10 days. There he may open up his thinking, with concrete proposals, in a way that hasn't been revealed yet.

House OK's More For Departments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate Wednesday a bill to appropriate $4,327,457,000 for the Labor Department, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and several minor agencies for the coming fiscal year. This was $45,309,919 more than President Kennedy requested, with extra money for medical research and to help find jobs for the unemployed.

Conferees Probe Industry Expansion

Clark tissue from a new Connecticut plant to illustrate his point. "Most industrial development is no longer stealing a plant from one community by another," he said. But it is a question of branch plant location.

"In the past states have had reciprocity in fields which don't produce jobs. I am suggesting that we start working on something which will actually create jobs," he said.

View Endorsed

The advice to emphasize local advantages for branch plants and new markets was endorsed by Victor Roterus, director of R&A Development of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

Roterus said competition for new industry is getting more fierce every day. At least 3,200 local development corporations are eligible for Small Business Administration loans.

"Those communities which have done nothing, out of plain self-defense now have had to do something," he said.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson predicted Wednesday night that intense competition for industry among the states may force Wisconsin into using state public funds to acquire land and to help finance plans for new industry.

However, Nelson warned against expecting "miracles from tax revision." The most favorable business tax laws Wisconsin can devise would not have a dramatic effect on state economic growth, Nelson said.

State Money

In having the problem of providing funds for business expansion, Nelson said Wisconsin is competing with at least eight states which lend state money to local industrial development corporations to buy land and for plant construction. Voters in New York will decide on a constitutional change to allow use of $100 million in parts of that state with unemployment, he noted.

Nelson said the Wisconsin Development Credit Corporation organized by state bankers, and the U. S. Small Business Administration have done good work, but that this may not be enough.

"If this state money movement continues to spread, and I might mention here that it is just as popular in the North as in the South, Wisconsin may be forced by competition to consider a similar program," he said.

Nelson argued that state taxation is not "the prime factor" in industrial location.

Transportation costs to markets, raw material, skilled labor, cultural factors and federal taxes which dwarf state and local taxes are far more important in industrial location decisions, he said.

The job for Wisconsin is to continue selling a use for its abundant supply of hard wood in the northwest of the state and for its low grade iron ore, Nelson said. It should have a survey of its mineral wealth, advertise its skills and promote its water front locations, he said.

1,000 Parks

Competition between communities includes plans ready for lease, more than 1,000 industrial parks with ready sites and "shell buildings" to be moved into for quick production, Roterus said.

He advised local officials not to be discouraged by failure or to have the attitude that industrial moves are ending. Industrial development can draw on the fact that half American plants were built during World War II and before and that research on new products and processes is just starting to go.

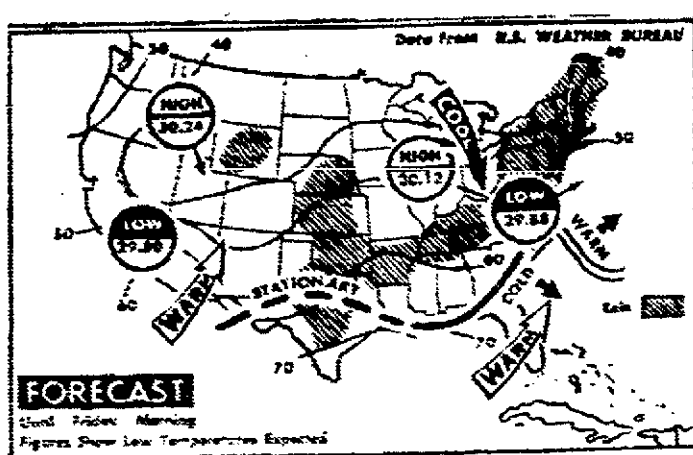

Wolf said local industrial development must enlist the support of all groups and their top leadership.

"Be nice to the industry you have," Wolf said, "because it talks to other industry constantly and often is planning expansion itself."

The State Council of Economic Advisers envisioned by Carley would include heads of college commerce departments and key persons in state government. In addition, he said, there should be legislation for a joint Assembly and Senate committee with a small staff.

Carley said the law he proposes would require the governor to make a biennial economic report to the legislature.

He said industrial opportunity in Wisconsin must be based on profits, bold programs for expanding population and sound local regional and state planning.

Rain Is Expected tonight in New England, the middle Atlantic states, Ohio, Tennessee and lower Mississippi valleys. It will be cooler in the Great-Lakes area.

Peterson in Race for GOP District Job

County Unit Hears Sellinger Job at Nelson, Democrats

Outagamie County Republicans head for the Eighth District convention in Green Bay tonight with the election of Tailor Peterson.

Peterson

Appleton, as district chairman their prime objective. About 30 members gathered at the courthouse annex Wednesday night to hear Peterson declare that the most important function of the district chairman is to win elections for the Republicans.

"We've had enough sniping among ourselves," Peterson said. "It's time we got together and go after the Democrats."

Peterson said he had made up his mind only Wednesday to enter the race. The former Outagamie County party chairman is likely to oppose Colburn Chorney, Green Bay, former Brown County chairman, and Ed Allan, Door County chairman. Present Chairman W. E. MacEachron, Manitowish, is not seeking reelection.

Mark Catlin, former speaker of the assembly, and John Conway urged Outagamie County representatives to get to Green Bay early and work for their man.

"The district chairman should be a good Republican, have time available for the job and be someone who will perform," Catlin warned.

County Chairman Leonard E. Pasek announced that he had named Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nelson as co-chairmen of the membership committee, and that he will select today a transportation coordinator who will serve as a central information point for those attending the state GOP convention in Eau Claire next month. Richard Roeder, former membership chairman and now county party secretary, noted that the GOP has 1,100 members on its mailing list, but that only about 350 have paid dues for the current year.

"Pasek said he attended a recent New York meeting at which proposed federal laws on agriculture were discussed and said, 'It's frightening to learn what the current administration is trying to do.'"

Socialize Agriculture

A house bill "would completely socialize the agriculture industry," he said, and it has the support of Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman "who doesn't know anything about agriculture." The bill is designed, Pasek said, to raise the price of food.

Philip Sellinger, of the state GOP organization, talked about what he called the "mess in Madison" and quoted some of the favorite jibes at Gov. Gaylord Nelson and Democrats in general.

Sellinger

He called Nelson the state's No. 1 problem and said the governor's only proficiency is in publicity. "He approaches state problems with an open mouth."

He said the president's initials stand for "Jobs For Kinfolk" and quoted Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles as saying Kennedy was anxious to get on with the space program so he could find the pie in the sky he was promising last fall.

Sellinger jabbed at Nelson for failure to deliver on his promises of speeding up highway construction, for failure to back up his own committee on tax revision and for his department of administration, set up to make operations of five departments more efficient. The department now wants $5 million more than it cost for the five individual departments under the last Republican administration, he said. "They're going to give you economy no matter how much it costs."

Sellinger said individual Republicans should stand behind their legislators, get the Republican message to the public and be willing to stand up and be counted as a Republican wherever they are.

Police he was going north behind the Martin car.

Fierer said he saw headlights coming from the north as Martin was abreast of the truck. He said Martin seemed to hesitate and then the two cars hit. The truck went into the ditch before the collision, he added.

Noonan told police the Martin auto passed him, but then slowed down in the left lane instead of pulling in ahead of him. He said Mrs. Nelson applied her brakes and her car skidded sideways and then was hit.

Martin Obituary

He said the impact threw both cars onto the right shoulder of the highway in front of his truck. Noonan said he slowed down and was headed for the ditch but could not avoid hitting both cars.

Mrs. Nelson was found about three feet from the Martin auto—about 41 feet north of her car. Far go Funeral Home, Kaukauna, is making funeral arrangements.

Martin was president of the state Eagles organization in 1956 and currently was president of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union at Hardwood Products, where he worked as a machine helper in the core and press department since 1957.

He was born in DePere Sept. 13, 1909, and came to Oshkosh in 1943. Surviving are the widow, one son, a daughter, a sister and a brother. Funeral services will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at St. Mary Catholic Church, Oshkosh, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Sphatt is a saw operator in the Hardwood Products cutting department and has worked there since June of 1952.

Mrs. Nelson was born Aug. 9, 1915, in Taylor, Wis. She was a graduate of Kaukauna High School and of St. Francis Hospital School of Nursing, La Crosse, worked part time at St. Elizabeth Hospital and as a private duty nurse.

She had six daughters, Mary, Frances, 15; Christine, 12; Carol, 9; Kathleen, 7, and Robin, 2, and five sons, William Jr., 19; Royal, 14; John, 11; Roger, 8; and Jeffrey, 4. Also surviving are the widower, one brother and two sisters. Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at Holy Cross Catholic Church, Kaukauna.

Given apparently was going home when the car left the road. It traveled off the pavement for 81 feet before it went over a farm driveway and flew 48 feet through the air, bounced off a culvert and went into a field. Then it dug nose first into a second culvert, rolled end over end for 39 feet and landed on its top. Given was pinned in the demolished auto. Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps said Given died of head and internal chest injuries shortly after the crash.

Given was born in Town of Horton June 29, 1919, and lived most of his life in the Hortonville area. He was a World War II veteran. Surviving are the widow, his parents and three brothers, Borchardt and Moder. Funeral Home, Hortonville, is making funeral arrangements.

Outagamie County Police Sgt. George Elze and Patrolman E. A. Welch investigated the accident.

The accidents set Winnebago County's fatalities for the year at seven, compared to six at this time last year, and Outagamie's at four. Kenneth M. Feldman, 37, Fond du Lac, was killed Wednesday, police said, when his car crashed into the side of Soo Line freight train engine at a crossing on the outskirts of Fond du Lac. Feldman was alone.

Economist Says Rebound From Recession Fast

Bankers Discuss Management at Group Meeting

GREEN BAY — The nation is rebounding from the down turn in its economy at the close of 1960 and start of 1961 more rapidly than the experts assumed it would, a midwest economist said here Wednesday afternoon.

Karl A. Scheld, a representative of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, spoke at the Group 3 Wisconsin Bankers Association directors and executive officers conference at the Elks Club.

"Most observers agree that the bottom was reached in the first quarter near the end of February. Since then the development of manufacturers sales, the order for products and the inventory picture have changed rapidly," Scheld said.

If the upward trend continues as expected, the gross national product will be producing at an annual rate of $525 billion during the fourth quarter of this year, compared to a rate of $393 billion during the final quarter of 1960.

During the morning session, William T. Hammill, supervising examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., Madison, discussed the requirements for continued management and training of employees.

"Banking offers the greatest opportunities for young people that it has in the past 25 years," Hammill said and urged that employees be trained for opportunities in management.

Hammill said lack of continuity in management has been one of three greatest contributing factors leading to bank mergers which have become so prevalent.

Lists 14 Duties
The job of the bank director came in for a review during a discussion by Robert J. Hochstadt.

Navy Speculates About Choice for Operations Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy speculation about who will be tapped as the new chief of naval operations focused today on Vice Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., dynamic commander of the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The White House is expected to act soon to nominate a replacement for Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, whose third two-year term as CNO expires Aug. 1.

Speculation also centered on Adm. James S. Russell, Burke's second in command, and Vice Adm. John T. Hayward, the Navy development chief.

Another possibility is Adm. Harry D. Felt, peppy commander of the 7th Fleet and chief of all U.S. military and naval operations in the Pacific. But with Southeast Asia, and now Korea, in crisis, it was thought Felt would be left where he is.

Some Navy sources said the "smart money" was on Anderson, 54, a tall handsome aviator who, since the fall of 1959, has directed the powerful fleet units patrolling waters near the volatile Middle East.

Included in the list were legal responsibilities, internal controls, finding new customers, lending policies and over-all policies.

William E. Nuesse, Madison, commissioner of banks for Wisconsin, outlined the objectives of a bank examination and explained how bank executives could assist the examiners when the job was being performed.

One of Three
Group 3 covers a 13-county area in northeastern Wisconsin representing some 114 banks. The meeting here was one of three being held in the state sponsored by the Wisconsin Bankers Association Management Committee.

The meeting for Group 6 was Tuesday in Wausau and the conference for Group 2 is in Madison today.

How Many Lassies and Why It's So

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent line in this column concerning the illusion-shattering news that "Lassie," the collie star of the program of the same name, was really four dogs and all of them male, brought a prompt explanation from the advertising agency which handles the show.

Jim Swift, my correspondent, states that Lassie has been a male since the eighth day of shooting, more than 20 years ago, of "Lassie Come Home," a movie from which the TV series subsequently developed.

The very first Lassie was female. For the first six days of shooting—inside the studio—she was great. Then during the luncheon break on the second day of the location shots, a handsome male Doberman turned up. The result was that Lassie broke her leash and eloped. Shooting had to be

Lawrence Says World Moves To Free TV, But Not U. S.

JFK Administration Theorists Don't Understand Business

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — At a time when the entire world, with the exception of the Communist-bloc countries, is moving away from government control and state monopoly in television broadcasting, the United States under the Kennedy administration is moving toward government dictation.

This may be due to the lack of business background among high officials inside the administration here, and particularly it may be due to the failure of the new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, Newton N. Minow, to understand the private enterprise system as it relates to broadcasting.

For when Mr. Minow says that he wishes the broadcasting stations to alter their programs so as to cater more to the cultural, educational side, he fails to understand that radio and television are supported by the efforts of American businesses to get the sales for their products. The head of the FCC in this country sponsors of TV programs pay trying to turn the clock back. For large sums not only to cover the expense of the mechanical facilities fulfilled — to take away states of a broadcasting company licenses unless they conform but also the entire cost of actors, to his rules as to the programs writers, technicians, producers that shall be broadcast — then television in America will be paralyzed.

Mass Audience

The companies which spend their money to sponsor programs naturally want sales so as to pay their own costs of production and their employees. The whole national output of $500 billion a year is directly related to how many and what kind of products will be bought by the public. Television and radio go to a large degree to what is termed

"mass audience." The sellers of products want as many potential purchasers as possible to listen to their messages. There are, of course, some companies whose sales messages are of interest to a limited group, and this includes what is known as goodwill or institutional or financial advertising. But, for the most part, the companies that use television are interested in reaching the maximum number of listeners.

So, when a government official comes along and says, in effect, that these companies should contact themselves with smaller numbers of listeners, this is tantamount to saying that the advertisers should be content with a lack of effective results and should take the losses flowing from such a curtailed sales effort.

Possible Subsidy?

Unless, of course, private sponsors are willing to buy time for programs that will bring to them sales results to justify their expenditures, the television and radio stations will lose money and the government will have to subsidize them. This means political control and government interference with the operations of private business.

Interestingly enough, Great Britain, which started out with a government-owned and government-controlled television network, without any advertising, now is confronted with the full-fledged competition of a private established network which not only takes advertising but today has the bigger audiences. These programs are very much like American TV — in fact, some of the most popular are reruns of American TV shows. The same and educational side, he fails to understand that radio and television in Mexico and in Latin America are supported by the efforts of American businesses to get the sales for their products.

So it is surprising to see the head of the FCC in this country trying to turn the clock back. For large sums not only to cover the expense of the mechanical facilities fulfilled — to take away states of a broadcasting company licenses unless they conform but also the entire cost of actors, to his rules as to the programs writers, technicians, producers that shall be broadcast — then television in America will be paralyzed.

Somehow many theorists who get into government do not understand the workings of the free enterprise system. Also, some of the people who have been applauding Mr. Minow's criticisms of television programs do not understand that program time cannot be sold by the television companies themselves but only by the advertisers who are willing to buy readers. But, as the late Albert Einstein said, "We don't pay for our ads in newspapers or magazines. We only pay no other way can be found to fit them, direct-by-mail, billboards, that are opened and read and get will spend his money wastefully and other forms of advertising, available to them and puff their wares as much as they please?"

The government cannot guarantee sales results to the advertiser. Mr. Minow has brought con-

State Paper Industry Keeps High Level of Employment

Report Shows Major Funds Used To Expand U. S., World Markets

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Wisconsin paper manufacturers generally resisted payroll cutting pressures during the last year, and made large capital outlays in a vigorous effort to retain and expand national and world markets.

Schulenburg, who is director of public relations for Kimberly-Clark Corp., pointed out that sales, earnings and employment had fallen off on many industrial fronts. Despite this, he said, the paper industry had managed to substantially maintain employment levels.

He said, "In terms of production workers, all U. S. industry in March, 1961, fell 8.5 per cent from March, 1960. Paper slipped an even 3 per cent.

"In weekly hours of work, all industry averaged 39.1 hours. The paper industry averaged 41.4 hours.

Earnings Up
"In gross weekly earnings, paper rose 1.8 per cent, while all industry fell 0.3 per cent."

The paper manufacturing segment of the Wisconsin economy also "apparently has been holding against a state-wide trend," he said.

"From Wisconsin Industrial Commission reports, we know employment in paper and allied products in March, 1961, was 39,200, a gain of 100 over the figure for March, 1960.

"Employment in pulp and paper mills, as distinguished from all paper concerns, was up even more — 300 over the figure of March, 1960. This contrasts with Industrial Commission reports that a total of 103,700 persons were unemployed in Wisconsin in March, 1961, compared with only 67,300 unemployed in March, 1960."

Schulenburg pointed out that despite generally lower earnings reports during the year, Wisconsin paper manufacturers showed "remarkable" vigor by making one

Legislators Get a Shock as Small Villages, Cities Back Annexation

MADISON — To the surprise of some veteran legislators and to the chagrin of the rural government lobby, many of the smaller cities and villages of the state are rallying to the cause of the larger municipalities in the current legislative struggle over territorial annexation rights of urban centers.

The bill to permit cities to annex by ordinance, subject to approval of the state director of planning, contiguous area of urban characteristics that is unincorporated, and without a referendum as required under present law, was generally thought to be of concern primarily to a comparatively few of the larger and most rapidly growing population centers.

But this week the League of Wisconsin Municipalities put on the desks of state senators a petition containing the names of officials of almost 300 cities and villages, many of them small communities in rural districts, pledging support for the bill.

Fox Valley, Too
Thus far the bill has been advocated most ardently by the city administrations of some of the communities with most acute growing pains and most extensive suburban extra-territorial growth, including Green Bay, Madison, Waukesha, Eau Claire and a few others.

But the League petition shows that the issue has aroused the concern of many of the other communities in which such larger community growth problems were thought to be of academic interest only.

Among the names of smaller communities on the League petition were De Pere, Denmark, Brillion, New Holstein, Sturgeon Bay, Forestville, Sister Bay, Al-bermarle, Luxemburg, Two Rivers, Valders, Niagara, Pound, Gillett, Khrushchev next month.

Large Makes Stand Against Cities' Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Sen. Gerald Lorge announced that he will vote against a pending senate bill to liberalize annexation procedures for cities, "in spite of his knowledge that it support it would be politically advantageous to him in the city of Appleton.

The Outagamie and Waupaca county senate representative made his declaration during pre-annexation argument in the senate on a measure that would permit cities to annex adjacent territory within urban characteristics on their towns.

Lorge conceded that cities have renewed Allied willingness to close ranks against further Red conquests.

Pushed to Wall
This may be the message he wants to get over to Khrushchev. The United States has been pushed about as far as it can be said, pushed in Asia, in Latin America, in Germany, in Africa.

The United States wants peace and is willing to talk about it, but remains willing to defend the Western world and determined to defend itself.

The United States intends to strengthen its own conventional forces and hopes to strengthen those of the Western Allies in last four years, and the current case the Communists contend: plate more brush-fire wars, such as the Red push in Laos.

The United States intends to keep what forces it now has in Europe and to increase their conventional capabilities, just in case the Communists contemplate something like overrunning West Berlin.

Nuclear Weapons
Against the possibility of Soviet nuclear threats to back up conventional thrusts, the President poses the prospect that nuclear weapons will be available to defend the entire Atlantic Treaty area. The United States intends to go ahead with plans to commit to the NATO command Political Kennedy has called upon all the allies of the West to be alert to the possibility of new Communist aggression and to build up internationally controlled seaborne forces NATO missile force — the other accordingly. But he seemed to be aiming at more than that.

Much of what he said to the Canadian Parliament Wednesday or even in the immediate future. What the President seemed to be doing was enumerating for the Bay, Forestville, Sister Bay, Al-bermarle, Luxemburg, Two Rivers, Valders, Niagara, Pound, Gillett, Khrushchev next month.

Vote Delay Saves Cities' Annexing Bill

Concessions Seen
As Authors Defer to Their Political Critics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
MADISON — A defeat for legislation to provide broader territorial annexation rights for the growing cities of Wisconsin was apparently averted Wednesday when its authors asked for a Northern University and the delay in voting in the state senate. The bill, which is the first in order to make concessions to some of its political critics, is the "How Free" bill, introduced by Sen. Richard Zaboriski of Milwaukee, floor leader for the major bill of the year of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, tried to modify opponents of the legislation by offering an amendment devised to meet some of their objections.

The bill would permit cities and villages on their own motion to annex contiguous, urban but unincorporated territory, subject to approval by the director of planning in the state department of resource development. The latter agency is headed by David Carley, who is not a favorite of the Republican state senate.

Concentrate Fire
When rural district opponents centered their fire upon what they called a plan to make Carley a "dictator," the League through Zaboriski offered an amendment to make such annexations subject to a review by a three member state annexation advisory commission, chosen by the governor with nominations made by city and village organizations and the association of towns.

Zaboriski said before the long and heated debate yesterday that the bill would win a narrow victory, if it survives.

Most Capitol observers believe that the traditional power of the rural political interest in the legislature will hold and that the latest effort of the larger municipalities to provide a more flexible plan for expanding their corporate boundaries to the facts of their population growth will fail.

The Wisconsin Towns Association is fighting the bill anxiously, claiming that the proposal for the elimination of the traditional referendum for the residents of

For Graduates

The Rev. Robert H. Hamill, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church and co-director of the Wesley Foundation of Wisconsin at Madison, will deliver the baccalaureate address at Lawrence College on June 11. President Douglas M. Knight will be the 11th commencement speaker.

Rev. Hamill was trained at when its authors asked for a Northern University and the delay in voting in the state senate. He has travelled four summers in Europe studying youth movements and Christian projects, and will do the same during the coming vacation, representing the West Wisconsin conference at the World Methodist conference in Oslo, Norway. He is chairman of the West Wisconsin conference board of education and was delegate to the General Conference of 1944. In August he will be a presbyter for the Quadrennial Conference of the Methodist Student Movement, at Urbana, Ill.

Title Listed
The Lawrence baccalaureate sermon will be titled, "Questions are better than Answers." President Knight has not yet announced his commencement subject.

The two traditional ceremonies — baccalaureate at 10:45 a.m. in Memorial Chapel, and commencement outdoors on the main campus at 3 p.m. — will climax three days of social and cultural events.

The alumni college will be divided in two sessions this year, the first from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, June 9, and the second from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. June 10 in Harper Hall of the Music-Drama Center.

"Goals For Americans" a report submitted to the president of the United States by the Commission on National Goals, of which former Lawrence President Henry M. Winston was chairman, will be used as a basis for the discussions.

A panel consisting of Lawrence faculty members and local alumni will discuss the book. Chaired areas proposed to be annexed is undemocratic.

With Cute Potato Actors

BY CAPPY DICK

To make actors out of small potatoes, turn them into puppets. Select oddly-shaped potatoes because they will make the funniest puppet characters. You can easily find those that have bumps resembling noses, chins and cheeks and, of course, every potato has plenty of eyes.

Put on your own show with potato puppets.

To provide hair, glue yarn on the potato.

So the potato will fit on your index finger, hollow it out at the neck, making a hole big enough to admit your finger snugly.

Make the puppet's costume from a small piece of cloth (see pattern in Figure 1). Fold the cloth and cut both sides of the costume at the same time. Sew it where the dotted lines appear in Figure 1. Turn it inside out, press it with an iron and it is ready. The effect of trousers can be marked on the costume with black crayon.

Put the costume over your hand with your thumb in one sleeve, your middle finger in the other and your index finger through the neck hole. Place the puppet's head on the end of your index finger. The puppet will appear as in Figure 2.

A corrugated box of good size will serve as the stage (Figure 3). Paint it one solid color inside—preferably black. Make openings in the side (which actually will become the bottom of the stage) so you can thrust your hands (bearing the puppets) through them. The stage may be rested on the backs of two chairs set far enough apart for you to kneel between while you operate the puppets.

By moving your hands inside the box you can make the puppets appear to move like real actors while you speak their lines for them.

Defer Action on New Assessment Proposal

Plan Would Make Units of Government Pay Full Cost of Public Improvements

Appleton's proposed new assessment policy on publicly owned property was referred back to committee at Wednesday night's council meeting so that a question of legality can be resolved.

The board of public works passed the new assessment policy because it believed this would help provide a more accurate way to determine the cost of public services.

Under the present policy, the city absorbs the cost of public improvements and public property. Consequently, the cost is not added to the expenses of other units of government when they incur their individual costs to operate their individual units.

School Taxation

The school board was used as an example to illustrate how the old policy and the proposed new policy would affect cost of operation figures, particularly in regard to taxation charged students from outside the district.

Board members said the cost of educating a student and tuition charged those from outside the district is based on the cost of operation.

When special assessments are not added to this cost of operation, a true expense figure is not correct, they said.

As a result, students from outside the district are not being charged enough tuition and city taxpayers are absorbing that additional cost, it was said. The board said this is not fair to city property owners.

Has Use of Land

It is the opinion that the school board for instance has the use of the land purchased for as long as it is used for school purposes but is not the owner of the land, she commented.

City Atty. Don Jury said he be-

Residents Oppose Work On 3 Streets

Oshkosh Council Told to Charge City For Pavement Costs

OSHKOSH — Residents living on three streets the city has scheduled for permanent-type construction protested to the work at a three-hour hearing Wednesday.

Circumstances on each street differ but most of the property owners involved said the city should do the work and the entire city share expenses for the work rather than by special assessments of property owners on the streets.

The three streets are Merritt Avenue, 22nd Avenue and Eagle Street.

New Area

Merritt Avenue was dug up for storm sewer and water mains. Property owners feel they paid for the street once and should not pay again. A concrete street from Merritt Avenue to Lake Winnebago would cost $115,500, the city said. Property owners would be assessed $3 a front foot or $21,400 of the cost.

Eagle Street is in a new area leading to the new Oshkosh High School. The proposed concrete roadway would be 50 feet wide at the school and 40 feet wide at its opposite end. Front foot assessment would be $8.75, cost for a 36-foot wide road.

Residents on the street already have paid assessments of $1.90 a 31

The ratification of the merger came on a voice vote by the 317 pastors and laymen who are delegates to the synod's 71st annual convention. The Northwest is one of the 32 synods in the United Lutheran Church and the eighth to approve the merger.

The United Lutheran Church has been negotiating since 1956 toward a possible merger with the Augustana Lutheran Church, American Evangelical Lutheran Church and Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church (Suomi Synod).

Most Unemployed Need Retraining

BY SYLVIA PORTER

It was a year ago that Armour & Co., closed its meatpacking plant in Oklahoma City, wiped out the jobs of 400 workers and initiated a crash program to retrain the displaced employees which experts in government, management and labor are now studying with utmost care. This is a tale which you should ponder well, for it shows some profoundly important and deeply disturbing lessons.

When the Oklahoma City plant shut down, Armour's "automation ceedingly difficult to retrain them. As Dr. Seymour Wolfbein, the Labor Dept.'s manpower chief, put it to me, "For these people, the best kind of training would be going to school and learning how to read and write."

Near Illiteracy

An informed estimate is that of today's 2,128,000 long-term unemployed, 25 per cent are on the edge of illiteracy. Again to quote Wolfbein, "For them, the training must begin at the beginning."

A second point is that a crash retraining program will produce only minimum results. Armour's pilot project was inaugurated in a crisis atmosphere—six plants had been closed, operations had been slashed in a seventh, 5,000 workers had been displaced, the economy generally was in a recession. Had the training-retraining at Oklahoma City been worked out in a more "normal" atmosphere, there is no question many more workers would have been helped.

A third point—and this is THE BASIC POINT of all—is that no specific program, not even the most grandiose project, can be successful unless the general economy is expanding and thus creating new jobs which workers can fill. This point must never be underestimated.

And a fourth point is that while individual corporations, unions and industries can achieve a lot—many are now trying—this is a national problem which cries out for solutions at the national level.

apparent prospects of jobs. Of the remaining 230 who didn't leap at the opportunity, some had obtained new jobs but the majority simply didn't care about going to school to learn new skills.

Of the 170 tested, the Oklahoma Employment Service found only 60 who showed the necessary aptitudes. Of the balance—a majority of 65 per cent—most just didn't have the basic intelligence or education to benefit from training and their best chance for employment, the OES told them, was as common laborers.

Of the 60 who were found likely to benefit from retraining, 58 took advantage of the retraining offer and enrolled in a wide variety of courses—ranging from typing to welding to real estate procedures.

Few Obtain Jobs

Since being retrained, a few have obtained jobs in the fields of their choice and are extremely happy about the project—a result which suggests what retraining might achieve.

The committee—consisting of company and union representatives and impartially chaired—of to get work in the new fields and to finance the major part of training expenses for workers who in similar occupations at pay far could show an aptitude for a new below what they were receiving job and who could demonstrate a from Armour. Still others remain "reasonable" chance of getting a unemployed because there aren't new job if retrained. To help as-enough jobs to go around in Oklahoma City.

This is a bare outline but even aid of the Oklahoma Employment Service for aptitude tests and al-tai problems involved in retraining so sent in a group of personnel experts.

170 Accept Offer

Of the 400 laid off at the Oklahoma City plant, only 170 accepted the offer to be tested for retraining. Most of these had no job and no displaced workers will make it ex-

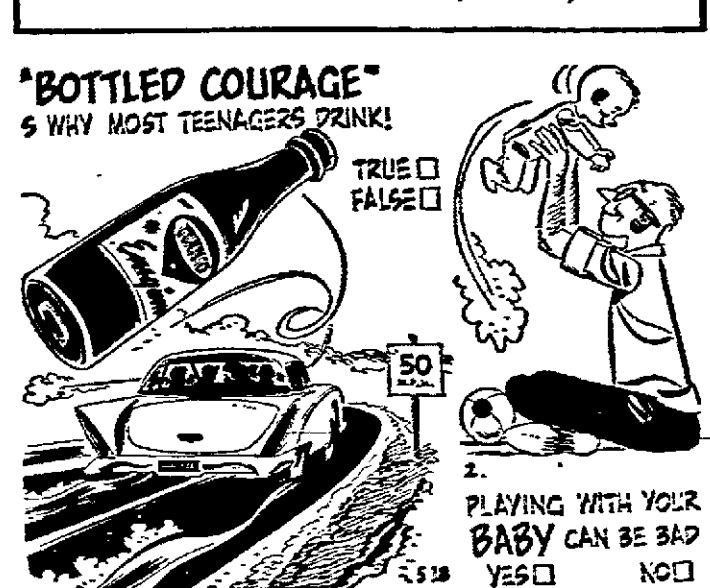

Midwest Slipping in Potato Production

Potato production moves west. States west of the Rockies now account for nearly 45 per cent of the nation's potato crop, up from 20 per cent in 1920.

The Midwest has slipped. The East continues to grow about one-third of the crop. The shift reflects higher yields in irrigated sections of the West, as well as specialized, highly mechanized farms in both the West and East.

"BOTTLED COURAGE"
5 WHY MOST TEENAGERS DRINK!

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

PLAYING WITH YOUR BABY CAN BE BAD
YES ☐ NO ☐

Some young people may drink called play likely to be harmful. to overcome feelings of inadequacy, shyness, and social ineptness. But others, especially girls, often drink because they are afraid they'll lose their popularity and general acceptance if they don't go along with the crowd. Still others use drinking as a form of adolescent rebellion. Whatever the reason, most young people find, as do their adult counterparts, that drinking is not the way to enduring popularity or success as a person.

Playing with your baby can be bad! No, of course not. Years ago, before our knowledge of psychology was developed, parents were warned that playing with their babies might upset them and cause emotional disturbance. Today we feel that in normal situations, playing with the baby is not only enjoyable for the parent, but good for the baby as well. Only if the parents themselves are disturbed is their

Ready-Made 900 Calorie Diet Lacks Bulk Necessary in Food

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

After all these months, questions keep coming in concerning the ready-made "900 calorie diets."

They seem to have caught on even more strongly than in the beginning—and the fad was enough at the outset. I'm told that there are now about 25 different brands of these 900-calorie diets.

People ask whether these diets day, or can be used as a substitute are "safe," or if they "work," or tute for one or two meals a day.) what I think of them. Oddly—or maybe it isn't so odd—nobody ter with these diets. They'll ever ask me whether some oth-work—as will any valid diet—er form of dieting, such as just if you follow the rules. But keep cutting down on what you usually in mind that it is as easy to cheat with these diets as with any oth-

The fact is that you can shed just as many pounds if you eat candy bars. Your regular foods, but keep the portions down to a corresponding caloric total, meanwhile getting and variety and something to chew. However, if you want to be lazy about things, and have some body else do your calorie count- ing for you, okay. I find it more my taste to eat the foods that I happen to feel like eating than to limit myself to something somebody else has dished up for me. However, that's up to you.

As to whether these diets are "safe," that can't be answered yes or no. Used properly, they are safe. But any reducing diet has its perils unless used properly. Since the 900-calorie diets include vitamins and minerals and

Also regarding safety, the 900-calorie diets do not include "reducing drugs," and in that regard are superior to systems that do use drugs.

Devoid of Bulk

They contain a basic amount of protein in general. They are low in carbohydrate and fat. But they are devoid of bulk. Hence it is important that a vegetable or salad or fruit be taken to supply this. (These diets can be taken as three or four liquid feedings a day, or can be used as a substitute for one or two meals a day.) At least the odds are much better with these diets. They'll work as well as any valid diet—ever form of dieting, such as just if you follow the rules. But keep cutting down on what you usually in mind that it is as easy to cheat with these diets as with any oth-

There's one thing I DO ask my readers to do, and that's to read and obey the rules laid down in the fine print. If, for example, the fine print happens to say (and in good ones I've read, it does) that you should get your doctor's approval before embarking on one of these diets, do so.

Chew It

If the fine print suggests getting some noisily chewable roughage every day, like celery, cabbage, encive, raw carrots, etc., do it—these diets are abandoned after a while because of their monotony. The idea was originally devised as a convalescent diet, for use in

Cranberry Sauce, Dates Mixed in Pudding Recipe

Here's a pudding that combines cranberries with dates for mighty good eating anytime.

The recipe calls for one cup each of whole cranberry sauce and chopped dates. Blend in half cup of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder and a half teaspoon of salt.

Separate three eggs and beat whites and yolks, adding three-fourths cup of sugar and a teaspoon of vanilla to the yolks while beating. Then stir into the fruit and flour mixture.

Pour into well greased baking pan and bake at 325 degrees for about 45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve with whipped cream.

cases where eating was an effort, and the idea was to get the minimum necessary food values into the patient with the least effort. Then somebody promoted it as a reducing diet. Well, it's a smart conversation piece, and it works if you can tolerate it and if you follow the rules.

Yes, it's possible. Men aren't as sensitive to it, but they can acquire and transmit it.

NOTE TO S.D.V.: I read your plausible explanation. So now face the facts. Your doctor said no alcohol. That's what he meant!

Astronaut Shepard Tells Story About His Flight in Space

Was Bothered by Butterflies in Stomach Before He Took Off, but He Enjoyed Trip

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s historic flight into space was preceded by a flight of butterflies — in his stomach.

However, he said, he managed to ground these well before blast-off, and was even impatient to get going.

Shepard details his feelings and experiences in this week's issue of Life Magazine, which has an exclusive contract with all seven American astronauts for their personal stories. By agreement, they share the proceeds, reported to be a lump sum of $500,000. Life, however, declines to give any figure.

Although there was tension before the flight, Shepard says, he was never at any time seized by actual fear.

Good Rest
He writes that on the night before his flight he had "a good, if short rest — no dreams, no nightmares, no charging around the bed."

But as he got into his space-suit the next morning "there were butterflies in my stomach," and, after he was enclosed in the space capsule, "the butterflies were pretty active."

Shepard said he was confident all would go well, but "I had made all the financial arrangements in case anything happened."

After he was shut inside the capsule, cloudy weather and technical problems held up the blastoff. Shepard spent the time checking instruments and wishing the flight would start.

Zero Hour
At last came the zero moment. Here is how Shepard describes his experience:

"I must admit that I braced myself too much for that marvelous liftoff. There was nobody around to tell me how it would actually feel, and we hadn't heard about it from Moscow."

"When the 'bird' lighted I could hear a rumble beneath me and feel the vibration, but both were at a much lower level than I expected. . . I was really exhilarated and surprised. It was smooth, gradual and gentle. . .

Trip Starts
"My trip had finally started, but it had started in an astonishingly pleasant way."

"For the first minute the ride continued smooth, and my main job was to keep the people on the ground as relaxed and informed as I could. I reported that everything was functioning perfectly. . .

"One minute after liftoff the bird rode a little rough. . . We had known that this was going to happen, but it was a little heavier perature never went above 102 degrees, and Shepard's air conditioned spacesuit kept him comfortable at no more than 76 degrees.

At last the parachutes took over as planned, functioning perfectly. "This was a moment of high relief for me," Shepard said. "In whole world could watch us take our chances," he added. "I was feeling very chipper. . .

Not Upsetting
When the capsule hit the ocean, the landing was abrupt but no more upsetting than we'd expected. Shepard was soon out of the capsule and aboard a helicopter.

Shepard said a big moment came when he took over control of the capsule — something the Soviet Union's Maj. Yuri Gagarin apparently wasn't able to do in his orbital flight.

"Major Gagarin may have had a fine long ride," said the American astronaut, "but as far as we can tell he was a passenger all the way."

Rockets Fired
At the high point of his flight, about 115 miles up, Shepard fired off rockets to slow his vehicle and send it on the downward phase. This was 5 minutes and 11 seconds after blastoff.

"There was a small, upsetting motion as our speed was slowed, and I was pushed back into the couch a bit. . . We were on our way down now."

Shepard said the only circuit failure on the flight came in a moment when a panel light failed to signal the jettisoning of the retro rocket container.

He said the view from 100 miles up was spectacular and breathtaking.

Gravity Hits
On the way down, "the re-entry G (gravity) forces built up and hit me a little before I was quite ready for them. . .

"In that long plunge back to earth I was pushed back into the couch with a force about 10 times the pull of gravity."

But Shepard said this did not bother him unduly. "All the way down, as the altimeter spun through mile after mile of descent, I grunted out o.k., o.k., o.k. just to show them how I was doing. . . By the time I reached 30,000 feet the capsule had slowed to about 300 m.p.h."

Through it all, the cabin tem-

Oleo Popular Spread, Use Keeps Rising

Margarine's popularity keeps climbing. Per-capita consumption of the spread will reach a new high of 9.5 pounds this year, producers predict.

In 1949, the year before restrictive federal legislation on the sale of colored margarine was repealed, per-capita use was 5.8 pounds. Butter consumption slipped to a new low of 7.8 pounds per capita in 1960, down from 10.5 in 1949.

Shepard said, adding: "I had a great sense of gladness and humility."

Our Children

Irrepressible Child Always Remembered

BY ANGELO PATRI

The young family has come from a long distance to the home- stead to let the grandparents see the children and the children to see them and the old home. The youngsters were lined up according to age and their mother was introducing them. "This is Don, and this is—" "I'm Tony," and a small square, chunky little rascal, big back eyes shining, pushed up through the line and put out a stubby little paw for his grandfather to shake, which he did with great heartiness. "Tony," groaned his mother, "after all I said!"

Close Call

A little later when the excitement of arrival had died down a bit, an older member of the family came into the living room with Tony by the hand. "Someone will have to guard this chap. He was standing on the loose stone wall throwing stones into the brook and if the stone he was on had slipped he would have gone down about 10 feet into the pool and that pool has rocks at the bottom." "Tony!" said his mother. And you know how she said it. A guard went along with Tony thereafter. "To think he is mine," said his mother half-humouredly, half despairingly. "He is simply irrepressible. We were expecting to start on this trip about three weeks ago—almost ready—and he went out and broke a neighbor's window and came down with the measles. He's always like that. And to think he is mine."

Remember Tony

Out of those five fine young people which one do you think his grandparents remember first, and always with an affectionate chuckle? You're right. It's Tony. The others are fine, intelligent, handsome children, any one of them a proud treasure to their family, but it is Tony, the irrepressible one that makes his presence felt wherever he goes.

Of course it is fine for grand- father to chuckle over him. He doesn't have to face the neighbors whose windows he breaks, whose cat he scares under the garage or high in the elm tree. Nor does he have to settle with the teacher whose patience is worn thin by Tony's irrepressibility. Still, isn't he worth it all? Doesn't he bring joy into the house with mud on his feet and that grin on his face? And don't his parents and brothers and sisters enjoy him? And won't he put his mark high up in his time? I believe, yes.

If you happen to have a Tony just enjoy him.

Bath Sponge Does Triple Service

One of the handiest bath accessories ever is a jumbo sponge pierced by a 13 - inch plastic bar. Slide the sponge to one end of the bar, and it serves as a long-handled bath brush for scrubbing your back and legs with soap-suds. Or center the sponge and "stick" it to the bathtub via the suction cups at each end of the bar—now this inexpensive gadget serves as a bath pillow so you can lean back to soak in luxurious comfort.

Finally, this same sponge-on-a-stick will do triple service by helping to scrub the tub clean.

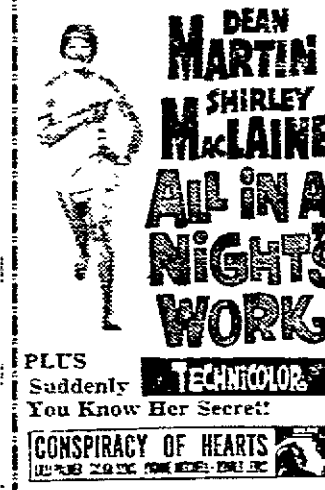

Cooking Rice

Rice won't stick to the bottom of the pan if you boil it in an aluminum strainer.

The rice will be fluffier cooked this way, and the pan will be easier to wash with hot soap or detergent suds.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Swing and Sway

A perfectly proportioned figure appears less than ideal when it moves stiffly. In fact were a woman graceful, she could be a bit too thin or too plump and no one would notice.

This is not to say that you should let any kind of weight problem go uncorrected. The point here is how much grace contributes to a figure's attractiveness.

To be graceful you first must be limber. Your joints and muscles must possess a high degree of flexibility, and the key to possession is exercise. Contrary to general belief, age plays only a small role in the loss of agility. The major factor, aside from illness, is physical inactivity. Be you teen or umpteen, your joints and muscles grow rusty from disuse, and movement becomes a thing of fits and starts.

The ways to limberness are participation in a sport, or performance of a daily routine. If you prefer the latter, here's what you do: Stand tall, stretch arms overhead, and sway from side to side. Drop head back; slowly turn face to-right, then to left.

Cross wrists, place fingertips on shoulders, swing arms to full extension, and return to starting position.

Swing right leg directly forward and backward, as high as possible, swing left leg.

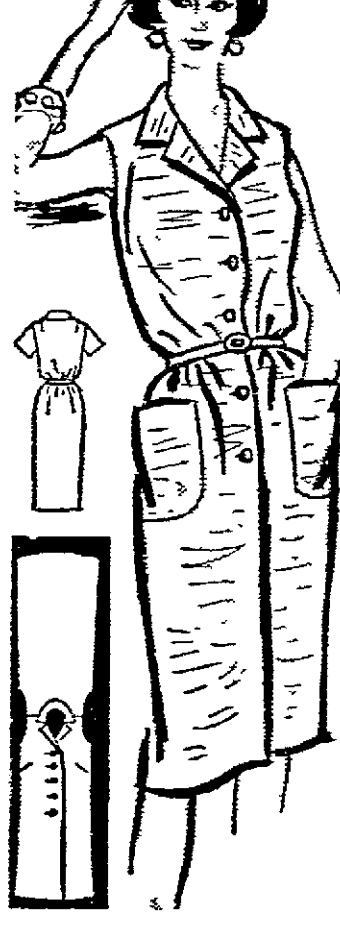

Repeat each part of the routine

10 to 20 times without stopping. After the very first session, you'll feel more limber and look it.

Your Problems

Writer Suggests Destructive Child Might Bang on Xylophone

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That was a mighty strange answer you gave to the mother whose signature was "Worn Out." She wrote that her child was destructive — broke furniture, knocked plaster off the wall and tore up everything he got his hands on. She couldn't take him to the homes of friends or relatives unless she virtually chained him to the porch. You told her the child sounded disturbed and suggested that she take him to a specialist. In this day and age it seems stylish to treat every personality irregularity as a symptom of emotional illness. It's downright fashionable to be in treatment. Did it ever occur to you that the child might just need something it's like to work two jobs at once. The minister of our church plays the xylophone beautifully. If he hadn't entered the clergy and makes fair money. He's a professional musician. whenever I say. The truth is he's He has often said that his musical training was the result of his destructiveness as a child. He, too, tore up everything in sight. His parents decided he needed something to pound on — so they bought him a xylophone. The instrument is fairly expensive but it's a lot cheaper than a psychiatrist. Why not recommend it to more "Worn Out Mothers?" — L. A. Reader

Dear Reader: Thanks for an interesting letter. Others wrote along the same lines. One father said his son was an incorrigible until he bought him a set of drums. Others had similar success with accordions. Xylophones, drums and accordions may serve as useful outlets for aggressions, but when a mother writes that her child is excessively destructive, punitive to other children and that discipline doesn't make a dent, I suggest a specialist. If the doctor recommends music lessons that's fine with me. But I recommend a doctor.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

BRIDE'S MOTHER AN INVALID

Mother has been in a wheel chair for the past 10 years. so I am helping with plans for my sister's wedding. What should we do about mother's entrance at the church? She will have to remain in her chair and as the aisle is quite wide, there would be enough space for the bride party to pass around her. She says she doesn't mind if she has to be wheeled down the aisle just before the processional, but is open to any other suggestions. Who should bring mother in and who should sit near her? Her brother will escort the bride. He is a widower Louise Davis Answers:

Under the circumstances, I think it would be nice to let your mother do as she really wishes. After all these years, wedding guests wouldn't be surprised to see the bride's mother in a wheel chair. Because she takes her infirmity in her stride, there is apt to be little or no pity which I'm sure she doesn't want. I suggest that you all have an imaginary rehearsal and be as objective as possible while doing it. If the wheel chair in the aisle becomes part of the first part of the bride party may have to veer from the center to get around it. If your mother chooses to do it that way, I suggest that she be brought down the aisle just before the processional. However, you might also consider having your mother brought into the church early, possibly from the side, then place her immediately in front of the first pew, but not in the aisle. Besides your uncle who will escort your sister there will be other in the family in the pew to watch out for your mother and tend to her needs.

50 Teens Keep Cool Over Hot Stoves In National Cook-Of-Year Contest

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Food Editor

CINCINNATI — Fifty accomplished teen-age cooks . . . 45 girls and five boys . . . busily worked over their hot stoves and at their service tables all day Monday, vying for five coveted honors in the 1961 Junior Cook-of-the-Year contest.

The scene of all this activity was on the main floor of the transformed ballroom of Cincinnati's Netherland Hilton Hotel at the third annual national Junior Cook-Off sponsored by the Kroger Co. and Westinghouse Corp. The balcony was crowded with spectators . . . mothers, home economics teachers, press, TV and radio representatives, and others. Those watching the youngsters were the anxious ones . . . the young cooks were cool, calm and collected from 8 a.m. to their deadline time of 4:30 p.m., when three versions of each chosen recipe had to be finished and one on its way to the judges.

Each of the contestants . . . jauntily dressed in official cook-off costumes with a perky chef's cap on his or her head . . . already was a winner. These 50 young people had won in their regional contests and were chosen from more than 40,000 teen-agers who entered recipes from 20 different states in the nation's only teen-age cooking contest.

Crowned 1961 Junior Cook-of-the-Year at the Tuesday Awards luncheon was Bettjean Jeska, 17, Swanton, Ohio. The high school senior cooked her way to fame and fortune with her Peanut Streusel Pie. The recipe that won $5,000 for Bettjean and a trip to Europe for the youthful cook and her mother is richly flavored with peanut butter.

The four other winners represented the top cooks in both the junior and senior divisions. In the senior division Myra Rickerman, 18, Texas City, Tex., won $2,000 for her Hong Kong Hamburgers and Mary Ewing, 17, Champaign, Ill., was awarded $1,000 for her Swedish breakfast bread called Scandinavian Sampler Loaves.

The $2,000 first prize in the junior division went to Martha Ann Williams, 15, Muncie, Ind., who baked a chicken dish with the name of Henry Penny Casserole. Shirley Parrett, 14, Bloomington, Ohio, was the Miss Williams $1,000 second-place winner in the junior division. Her prize-winning recipe is Citrus Garden Cake.

A Wauwatosa High School sophomore, Joyce Lipovsek, 15, was the only teenage cook from Wisconsin, although Craig Friedenauer, 14, Rockford, Ill., represented the Wisconsin Division in the junior classification.

Fun-Filled Days

It wasn't all work and no play for the youngsters. Their four days in Cincinnati were filled with special activities. Accompanied by either mother or home economics teacher, the young people and their companions toured the seven hills of the city, met Mayor W. H. Bachrach, attended special dinners and luncheons at which such famous singers as the Four Preps and the Vagabonds performed. They ate their breakfast Tuesday aboard a paddle-wheeler on a trip down the Mississippi River.

But the cook-off day was the most important. The recipe that won back home had to be prepared just right, three times, to be in the running. Here are the recipes that made the grade, together with the Wisconsin entry, a Yugoslavian sweet bread that's deliciously rich with honey and ground walnuts.

Peanut Streusel Pie

(Grand Prize Winner)

- 1 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1/4 cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 9-inch baked pastry shell
- 1 1/2 cup all purpose flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups scalded milk
- 3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Blend peanut butter with confectioners sugar until mealy. Sprinkle two-thirds of mixture over baked pie shell. Combine flour, one-half cup sugar and salt in the top of a en. Serve with soya sauce if de-double boiler. Stir in scalded milk, stirred.

Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thickened.

Stir a small amount of cooked

A Peanut Streusel Pie won $5,000 and the title of 1961 Junior Cook-of-the-Year for Bettjean Jeska, 17, high school senior from Swanton, Ohio. Besides the cash award, Bettjean won a trip to Europe for herself and her mother, a complete travel wardrobe and luggage as the grand prize winner.

filling into the egg yolks. Combine and cook several minutes longer. Add butter and vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Top with meringue. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in 350-degree oven.

Meringue

- 2 egg whites
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cornstarch

Beat egg whites until stiff; add cream of tartar. Gradually add sugar in the running. Here are the recipes that made the grade, together with the Wisconsin entry, a Yugoslavian sweet bread that's deliciously rich with honey and ground walnuts.

Hong Kong Hamburger

(First Place-Senior Division)

- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 pound ground beef
- 6 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (No. 303) bean sprouts, drained

Melt shortening; add onions and cook until transparent. Add ground beef; cook until browned. Mix eggs, salt, pepper and bean sprouts; add beef and onions. two-thirds of mixture over baked pie shell. Combine flour, one-half cup sugar and salt in the top of a en. Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serve with soya sauce if de-double boiler. Stir in scalded milk, stirred.

Henry Penny Casserole

(First Place-Junior Division)

- 2 pounds chicken breasts or two

The Grand Ballroom of the Netherland Hilton Hotel in Cincinnati was turned into a giant, efficient kitchen for the 50 teenage contestants in the third national Cook-of-the-Year contest. Spectators were allowed only on the balcony. The four-day event is sponsored annually by Kroger Co. and Westinghouse Corp.

The Two Wisconsin division contestants, Craig Friedenauer, Rockford, Ill., and Joyce Lipovsek, Wauwatosa, receive a key to the city from Cincinnati's Mayor Walton H. Bachrach. Craig, 14, and Joyce, 15, were among the nation's 50 top teenage cooks competing this week in the Junior Cook-of-the-Year finals.

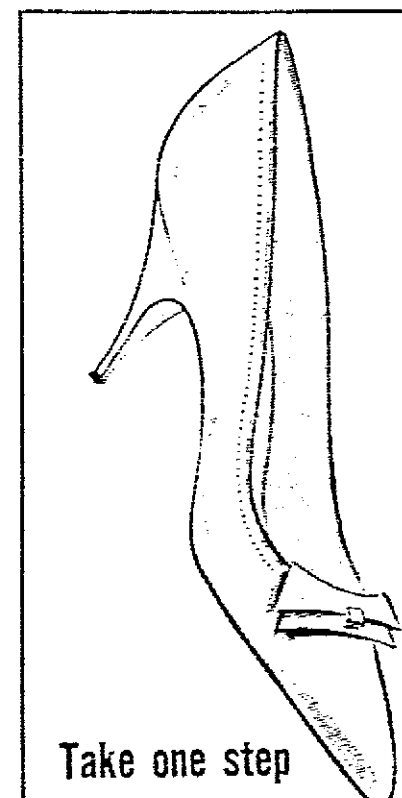

Caraway, Anise and Fennel seed blend a spicy flavor in the dark orange-flecked Scandinavian Sampler Loaf that Mary Ewing, 17, Champaign, Ill., baked for the contest. The high school student was awarded $1,000 for winning second place in the senior division.

Pick Right Time to Get Neck Pain

If you're going to get it in the neck anyway, you may as well pick a time that will cure your neuralgia. Think of this the next time a bridge opponent threatens to do you dirt.

West opened the king of hearts, and South trembled in anticipation. It was obvious that West had a five-card heart suit for his vulnerable overcall of two hearts. This meant that East was void of hearts and would ruff whenever dummy's ace was played.

"There's once chance in a million," South thought to himself, "that West had a diamond mixed up with his hearts. If so, East and South was doomed. West was sure to get two hearts and a club first round of hearts. It's now or never."

So saying, South closed his eyes and put up dummy's ace of hearts.

in addition to the first trick. Down one.

South should not rely on one chance in a million when he can make sure of the contract by delaying East's ruff. South should play a low heart from dummy at the first trick.

West continues with the jack of hearts, and dummy plays low again. Now West can afford to lead a low heart, and dummy's ace is ruffed by East.

South wins the club return with the ace of clubs, draws trumps through West. All of this delay has left South with the 93 of hearts, and West with Q-7.

West's queen of hearts is sure to be ruffed in dummy, and South uses his other heart to discard the losing club from dummy.

6 Fox Cities Area Track Teams Seek Sectional Honors in Green Bay

Battles for State Berths Slated Friday Evening

Friday night at Green Bay, six Fox Cities area schools will attempt to qualify athletes for next week's state Class A and B track meets.

Among the eight schools in the A division of the Green Bay sectional will be Kaukauna, Menasha and Appleton. Among the 14 entries in class B will be Kimberly, Hortonville and Seymour.

The meet at GBE (old Packer stadium) will begin with the trial heats at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow. Finals in all events are scheduled for the evening.

Four Winners Heading the Appleton contingent will be four individual winners in last week's Fox River Valley Conference meet: Dick Bunn, 440; Gene Bloedorn, high jump; Bill Nordgren, mile; and Bill Weber, half-mile. The Terrers also boast two strong relay teams.

Leading the Menasha delegation will be two Mid-Eastern Conference sprint champs: Dave Ristau (100) and Steve Hanchett (200).

Kaukauna's top threats include Tom Haen, in the 880; and Gary McFarlan, high jumper.

Tom Rooyackers, Dave Manley and Dave Hamann will be among Kimberly's top hopes. Rooyackers won the 1961 M-E high hurdles title and placed third in the broad jump and fourth in the low hurdles. Last year, Rooyackers set a Class B sectional record of 21 feet, 4 inches in the broad jump.

Manley placed third in the M-E lows, while Hamann took fourth and fifth, respectively, in the shot put and discus. Hamann won the Class B sectional shot put title.

NOTES and NOTIONS

It's pretty hard to tell whether ineffective pitching, the absence of catcher Del Crandall or the unstable outfield has been most responsible for the Milwaukee Braves' so-so start.

Only Henry Aaron has been in their regularly, and he's got to check the scorecard before each game to see where he'll play. Perhaps Frank Thomas will add the needed stability — but that remains to be seen.

Deal is being second-guessed by some. But, since Bolling is also doing very well, it's a little early to call that trade a mistake. Perhaps Manager Charlie Dressen is to blame for some of the outfield manipulations that have fizzled.

Dressen gave Mack Jones and others every chance to win a job. Jones proved he wasn't ready. John DeMerit, who apparently had won steady employment with lusty Florida hitting, faded when the bell rang.

For the umpteenth time, the Braves hoped Wes Covington would revert to his 1957 form. He didn't. There was little choice but to dispose of him. Wes' failure to come around — or his lack of desire to play for Milwaukee — will remain a large mystery.

Mel Roach, a .300 hitter as a part-time player, didn't come anywhere near that mark when inserted as a regular.

Thus, the Thomas trade was probably worth the gamble. If Thomas and Lee Maye don't come through, you can include the Braves "out" of the '61 flag race.

Butte des Morts' Don Strutz and Don Jabas and Ridgeway's Bob Below and Chet Eland were among the 1960 Northeastern Wisconsin Golf Association champions who

Dodgers Top Braves, 2-1, in 11th on Bases-Loaded Walk

Tommy Davis, Los Angeles center fielder, is forced at second after Frank Howard bunted in the eighth inning Wednesday night. Milwaukee pitcher Warren Spahn got the ball and fired to Roy McMillan for the force. The Dodgers won, 2-1, in 11 innings.

Morehead Walks Bob Lillis but Warren Spahn Takes Loss

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Milwaukee shutout until the seventh when manager Charlie Dressen lost Norm Sherry, playing his first game since April 20, socked a homer over the fence in left.

Here's what happened: The Braves' Warren Spahn, making one of his infrequent starts against the Dodgers, opened the final inning by giving up a triple to Frank Howard who rambled the ball against the left-field screen just short of a home run.

After Howard's hit, by the way, state baseball honors Wednesday his second of the night—he had a with a 4-0 victory over Kaukauna single in the fourth inning—the High School in the Preble district managers started their contests.

First, Dressen strolled to the mound and decided that was for Coach Don Neerdael's Birds, enough for the 40-year-old left-hander who had labored just about of the state WIAA tournament at four hours. Moe Drabowsky was Eau Claire. De Pere meets Preballed in for Spahn. From then le, 20-0 conqueror of Luxemburg, on there was a stream of traffic along the base lines, from the bleeps and the dugouts.

Drabowsky stayed just long the shutout, limiting the Ghosts enough to issue intentional walks to Norm Larker, pinch-batting for Gil Hodges, and Charlie Neal.

With the bases loaded, and none out, Alston sent Johnny Roseboro up to bat for Norm Sherry. So an even dozen and received air-then Dressen made a counter tight support.

Left-hander Seth Morehead was hailed from the bullpen to replace Drabowsky.

Roseboro never got a chance to swing a bat. He was yanked for pinch-batter Bob Aspromonte, who struck out. Bob Lillis was picked to bat for Los Angeles starter Stan Williams.

Lillis worked the count to 3-2, fouled off two long drives and then drew a base on balls. Home went Willie Davis, who was running for Howard, with the deciding run.

Williams, in gaining his second victory in four decisions, allowed 16 Braves to reach base, but only one of them got home. The run came in the sixth as Frank Thomas tripled to deep center. Hank Aaron, sidelined with a pulled leg muscle, took a turn pinch-hitting for Johnny DeMerit and hit a slow infield roller that allowed Thomas to score.

Williams walked a dozen Braves and gave up four hits. He fanned 11.

In starting Spahn was making his first appearance in the Coliseum in almost two years as he sought his 233rd career victory. He last faced the Dodgers in Milwaukee May 4 and beat them 4-1 on a brilliant two-hitter.

He was a good pitcher Wednesday night, scattering nine hits before leaving with none out in the 11th. He struck out seven and walked only four Spahn had a PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Jim Owens, the promising but problem pitcher of the Philadelphia Phillies, is going to rejoin the ball club he quit this spring with a vow he'd never return.

General Manager John Quinn made the unexpected announcement Wednesday night and added that the Phils have had offers for the 27-year-old right-hander "but nothing that would interest us."

"He's coming back like any other player under contract and he'll fit into our plans depending on what the situation calls for," Quinn said today.

Use of Owens as either a starter or reliever will be strictly up to Manager Gene Mauch, the general manager said.

Owens quit the club March 10 in spring training after a tiff with Quinn. In asserting he never would rejoin the Phillies, he said he just didn't fit into their plans and that he was a starter, not a reliever and that's the way it was going to be.

Owens returned to his home in Midland, Pa., and the Phils gave other teams permission to contact him. Quinn didn't say what had prompted Owens' decision to return.

Tigers Win, 9-1, Lead by 5 Games

Fifth Straight Setback for Orioles; Senators Edge Yanks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Chicago—for a 4-0 record.

About all you could say for Phil Regan during spring training was that he was a junior member who might fill an open spot on the pitching staff for the Detroit Tigers.

Both prognostications are in need of revision. Regan has become an unbeaten regular, and he's done it by whiplashing New York, Baltimore and Chicago in the American League pennant picks.

Washington helped boost the Tigers along by sweeping a two-game stay in New York, defeating the Yankees 8-7. Cleveland beat Boston 1-0 in the only other game scheduled in the AL.

Regan, who was 0-4 as a rookie in 17 games last season, walked just one man and struck out three. He lost a shutout in the fourth inning, when Brooks Robinson hammered a home run for a 16-game hitting streak.

The Tigers clubbed the Orioles to their fifth straight defeat with 15 hits, two by Al Kaline, who had a triple and a double and drove in three runs. Kaline's triple broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning. Starter Art Ditmar (2-2) was the loser. Left-hander Pete Burnside (1-2) won his first win relief help.

A pair of right-handers, Bobby Locke and Barry Latman, combined for a six-hit shutout for the Indians at Boston. Latman locked it up with 2-1-3 innings of hitless relief when Locke (1-0) gave way because of arm trouble in the seventh.

Oshkosh State College handled Lawrence a 6-3 defeat in a baseball game held to five innings Wednesday because of rain.

It was the second time within a week that the Titans beat the Vikings.

Pirates Edge Cards, Reds Tip Phillies in 1-Run Decisions

What's a whammy? That's the word you use to explain how the Los Angeles Dodgers can give up decisions against Spahn, the sure drier walks and two errors, go scoreless for six innings and then come from behind and win on a bases-loaded walk.

And that's just what they did Wednesday night as they once more exercised their spell over Warren Spahn for a 2-1 victory in 11 innings against the Milwaukee Braves.

Dodgers Edge Braves in 11th

And the defeat preserved the Dodgers 13-year home-field advantage over the Braves, who have beaten the Dodgers in their own park since he turned them back 2-1 in Brooklyn's Ebbets Field on Aug. 21, 1948.

Eddie Mathews failed to hit in three trips and thus had his 15-game hitting streak broken, but he remained at the top of the National League's hitting list with a .371 average.

The defeat left the Braves in fifth place, 5½ games behind league leader San Francisco.

The Braves were off today to return to the East where they will open a four-game series with the Reds in Cincinnati Friday night.

Big Ten Leaders Studying Cut in Athletic Aid Plan

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Big Ten sports leaders today opened from "loading up" with graders in any one year.

Such a restriction would tie up with Friday's likely approval by the policy-making faculty representatives of a revision of the Big Ten's current controversial aid-to-athletes program.

On the agenda Friday is a proposal to wipe out the present program based on need in favor of an athletic scholarship plan pegged on high school grading and a college entrance test score.

For the past four years, Big Ten athletes generally were granted aid if they were qualified high school graduates and their parents chipped in on the basis of their financial rating.

According to conference commissioner-elect Bill Reed, the idea of selective recruiting of scholarly athletes is in keeping with a nationwide trend.

At present, the Big Ten allows each school to grant tenders to a maximum of 109 athletes in all sports each year. There has been no restriction on the number of tenders for any particular sport.

The general attitude now is that the tender limit should be set at 80, with a football maximum of 35. Few schools have exceeded this football total, but a ceiling, it is felt, would prevent any school from "loading up" with graders in any one year.

Carry Back Will Face Big Odds In Preakness

3 Derby Winners Since '45 Have Taken Second Jewel

BALTIMORE (AP)—Carry Back will be bucking bigger odds Saturday than the Preakness betting board shows because of winning the Kentucky Derby.

He's figured today to be around 6-1, and the Preakness odds are 10-1. Carry Back is only four days before the Belmont's grueling mile and a half. Price's New Jersey commitment will be forgotten if Carry Back can take the Preakness, so he may have a shot at becoming the first triple crown winner since Citation in 1948.

But in the background lurks the winner since Citation in 1948. The colt colt since then to win the first two legs was Tim Tam, who finished second in the Belmont and won in 1953.

Since 1945, 11 have tried, and only three succeeded in taking the first two jewels of the triple crown. On the other hand, seven colts of his "little horse with the big Dick Olsen's 2-run homer ended a who finished second in the Derby tail" to handle all odds and 3-run rally in the last of the seventh.

But in the background lurks the winner since Citation in 1948. The colt colt since then to win the first two legs was Tim Tam, who finished second in the Belmont and won in 1953.

Since 1945, 11 have tried, and only three succeeded in taking the first two jewels of the triple crown. On the other hand, seven colts of his "little horse with the big Dick Olsen's 2-run homer ended a who finished second in the Derby tail" to handle all odds and 3-run rally in the last of the seventh.

2 Marathon Softball Clubs Score Wins

Jack Retzlaff, Of Gilbert, Hits Pair of Homers

The two Marathon entries, Lakeview and Gilbert's, were winners in the Twin City Industrial Softball League Tuesday night.

Lakeview walloped Bergstrom, 16-1, and the Marathon packagers edged by Soo Line, 10-9.

The Marathon Ramblers topped Banta's, 5-3, and Gilbert's whipped Neenah Foundry, 13-4. Len Adams, of Lakeview, held Bergstrom to only three hits for the evening. He also got three hits himself.

Reg Denney's triple and Bill Braun's single accounted for the winning run in the eighth inning in the Packagers' victory.

Roy's laying it right on the line, letting you in on the best time to buy and the best place to save! That goes for whatever model you need, too... from pickups to tandems. And with Chevy's I.F.S. (Independent Front Suspension) soaking up road shock and vibration, your Chevrolet stays young, protects the load better, works faster. You make more money.
